DEATH CLAIMS PIONEER OF THIS SECTION

DAVID THOMAS, A PIONEER OF CANYON, PASSES

Was Well Known as Early Settler in Panhandle; Funeral Was Held Wednesday

Following a lingering illness of three and a half months, death claimed David Thomas at his home Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock.

"Uncle Dave," as he was affectionately known to people in the Panhandle, was a true pioneer of this section. Born in Wales, British Isles, July 16, 1863, he was 66 years, 10 months and 4 days old at the time of his death.

Funeral services were conducted at the family home yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. E. C. Seaman, Episcopal bishop of Amarillo. He was assisted by Rev. B. F. Fronabarger.

Mr. Thomas is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. E. W. Meyers, and several grandchildren.

It might be judged from his life's history, as connected with the development of the Panhandle, from the time it was an open range until the present day of towns and cities, that Mr. Thomas had been here all of his life. However, he had traveled over the entire globe as a sailor and had been in every important seaport of North America, South America, Asia, Australia, Africa, and Europe, before he had reached the age of 22. He became a sailor at the age of 14, and after eight years of sea life, he settled on American soil, taking up residence in the state of Louisiana. Later he moved to Parker county, Texas, where he lived until he moved to the Panhandle in 1887.

He was married to Miss Mary Belle Jones, March 30, 1881, in Tarrant county. To this union four children were born, one of whom survives, and three of whom died in infancy. His first wife died August 3, 1888. Mr. Thomas married Miss Annie Fawcett, April 20, 1902, at Panhandle, Texas. She survives him. Stories of his experiences of the early days on the plains of Texas have thrilled the many who have heard him relate them. When he came west he secured a job on the old T-Anchor ranch, where he remained for the next 18 years. Amarillo was the nearest town at that time, and all necessary supplies for the ranch were freighted from there. For a long time Mr. Thomas was cook for the ranch.

Before leaving the ranch, Mr. Thomas settled upon some land in this section, which later brought fancy prices on the market.

He was here at the time Canyon was laid out and organized. This has been his home since. He lived to see bare prairie change to a growing village, which in turn transformed into a little city that is the educational center of the Panhandle. He served on the city council for a number of years, and was also a town builder. "Uncle Dave" was always one who looked into the future with the aim of good for all mankind at heart. His passing is mourned by countless numbers of the entire Panhandle.

Pall bearers were Bill Davis, Ed Baird, Tom Dowlen, Ed Rusk, H. C. Kyle, and J. D. Gamble.

Interment was at Dreamland cemetery, under the direction of the Griggs-Thompson Funeral Home.

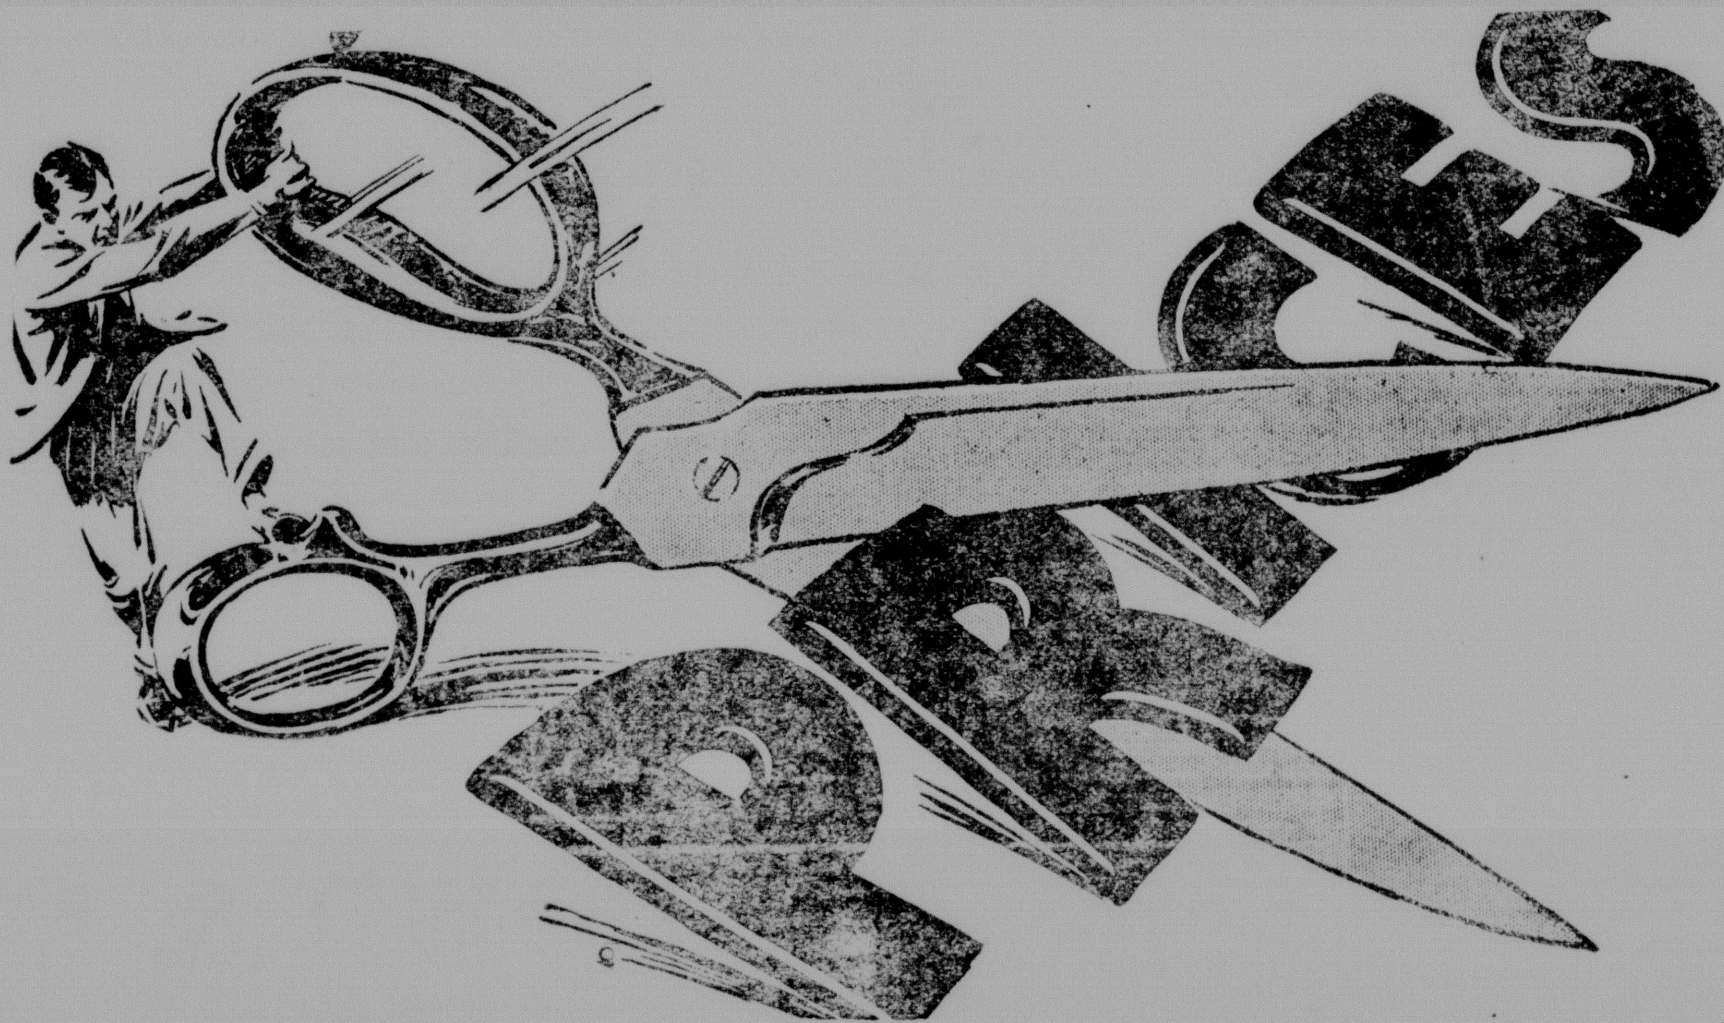

H. F. Smith Is Candidate For County Attorney

The News is authorized to announce that H. F. Smith is a candidate for re-election to the office of county attorney. Mr. Smith is serving his first term in this office, and is seeking re-election for his second term.

Mr. Smith opened law offices in Canyon following his graduation from the law school in the University of Texas two years ago. He has looked after the duties of his office as well, and states that he has done all in his power to see that the laws of the state were enforced in Randall county. If re-elected to the office, he states he will continue his policy of enforcing the law to the best of his ability.

Mrs. Peter Myer and daughter, Miss Agnes, transacted business in Amarillo Wednesday.

These offers are so numerous and varied that it is almost impossible to place them under one listing. Merchants are announcing their offers through the advertising columns of the News.

A baseball game Monday afternoon between the Canyon Cliff Dwellers and the Sunny Hill team will be played on the diamond just west of the Canyon high school. There will be no admission charge, as the game will be a feature of the Trades Day. The game will begin about 2:30 o'clock.

As a new feature of the Trades Day, the attractions will be carried into the evening. A band concert, fiddlers' contest, and a political rally will feature the entertainment of the evening.

The Buffalo band, under the direction of C. E. Strain, will give an open air concert at the band stand on the court house lawn. The concert will last for about an hour. This is to be followed by a fiddlers' contest.

The political rally will be held following the contest. A number of the candidates for various offices are expected to be present and make short talks on behalf of their candidacy.

J. M. Lybrand, Jr., O. N. Gamble, and W. A. Pierce are members of the committee who have been in charge of the Trades Day arrangements. A. M. Smith, county Democratic chairman, will have charge of the political rally Monday night.

A feature for the ladies will be an egg golf contest on the court house lawn which will begin at 1:45 p. m. Prizes will be offered for the winners in this contest.

Make your plans now to attend the regular Trades Day without fail. The merchants of Canyon are making inducements that are exceptional. Bring your family and spend the day visiting with Canyon people. Take advantage of the many offers of the Trades Day prizes and take some of them home with you.

The Family Doctor

The "Lone Eagle" has made another long jump in the records of aviation. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, with his young wife as passenger and navigator, flew from Glendale, California, to Roosevelt Field, Long Island, in 14 hours and 45 minutes, with a single brief stop at Wichita for fuel. This beats the transcontinental record of Capt. Frank M. Hawks by nearly three hours.

The Lindberghs flew at a height of from 10,000 to 14,000 feet, more than two miles up in the air most of the time. That was the secret of their speed. By flying high, Colonel Lindbergh believed, he would avoid bad weather conditions close to the ground. He holds that this flight has demonstrated that long-distance flying in the future will be at higher altitudes than has been customary, and therefore safer and more certain. Any flyer will tell you that if his engine is going to go dead or anything else happens which might cause a crash, he would rather be two miles up than one mile. From the greater height he has a far wider gliding area in which to angle down to a safe landing, and if he has to take to his parachute the difference of a mile or so is almost no difference at all. Most aviation accidents happen when the plane is too close to the ground to get out of trouble.

But the interesting and really important thing about this latest achievement of the young man whose intimates affectionately call "Slim" Lindbergh is that it demonstrates again that his position as the supreme airman of the world is not merely luck.

Thousands of envious and lazy persons dismiss every achievement of which they themselves are not capable as "luck." Thousands of young men believe that if they could only "get the breaks" they could do what Lindy has done, or Ford, or Edison. That is not true of success in flying or in any other human activity.

Lindy's success is due to the fact that he did not shirk the hard, grinding drudgery of a long apprenticeship in order to master his art. Because the public had never heard of him before he flew the Atlantic, many forget that he spent years in preparation, "barnstorming" in his own crude plane, then the gruelling two years of training at the army aviation school at Kelly Field, the most difficult training in the world in a school where only one out of ten who enter ever gets through the course, then a year in the hazardous night flights of the air mail between St. Louis and Chicago. When a man has come through training of that sort, he has learned his trade.

Instead of envying Lindy, every young American should take him as an example of what he may achieve, without means or influence but simply through persistence and the hard work without which any sort of success is impossible.

Visitor: There's nothing the matter with this country. All it needs is a better type of settler and a decent water supply.

Resident: Come to think of it, those are the only drawbacks to Hades.

Friend: How many men work in your office nowadays, Mr. Fracture?

Mr. Fracture: Oh, about half of them.

"So you were held up and robbed last night—after bragging that you could lick any man on earth hands down?"

"Yes; but he didn't give me a chance; he made me put my hands up."

Take care of the little troubles and there won't be any big ones to bother you.

Konjola Ended Neuritis and Kidney Trouble

Well Known Waco Photographer Enthusiastic About New Medicine. "Proven Wonderful Remedy," He Says.

MR. H. O. BRUBAKER

"I suffered for six years with neuritis, kidney trouble, and constipation," said Mr. H. O. Brubaker, well known photographer, residing at 623 1/2 Austin avenue, Waco. "My ankles and my limbs above the knees were badly swollen and gave me considerable. It became an effort for me to walk. My kidneys were out of order, making night risings necessary and causing me to lose restful sleep. My eyesight seemed to be failing on account of these conditions."

"Much to my surprise, I began to get immediate results after taking this medicine. The swelling left my ankles and limbs, and I became stronger. I can now go about my work without stopping to rest. I have been relieved of constipation, and my eyesight has improved since taking this medicine. I have and will continue to recommend Konjola to all who suffer from such ailments as I had. Konjola has proven to me that it is a different and wonderful medicine. It certainly proved its merit in my case."

Konjola was not designed to afford mere temporary relief. Taken systematically, over a period of from six to eight weeks, this medicine will amaze sufferers by the results obtained.

Konjola is sold in Canyon, Texas, at Jarrett's Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

THE BACKLOG OF CREDIT

Potatoes are not nearly as fashionable at a party as avacadoes. Beans are not as stylish on the hotel menu as frog legs.

Salt pork doesn't have the same rank at the banquet table as does caviar.

An insurance policy against fires and accidents, lying in the safe, is not as thrilling to the owner as a steamship ticket to Europe.

But the work and progress of the world are carried forward by the millions of people who live largely on such food as potatoes, beans, and salt pork.

The security, credit, and pleasure of the world is guaranteed by the insurance policy that stands back of every commercial enterprise. Without the protection of insurance, the reasonably-priced railroad and the steamship ticket would be impossible and security for invested capital which employs the millions of workers who consume our potatoes, beans, and salt pork, would be lacking.

The story of insurance is the story of the growth of modern civilization.

THE CRIME INDUSTRY

Seventy per cent of the crime in this country is committed by an organized industry, and chances for the criminal member to escape are 85 per cent in his favor, Karl Frederick, former amateur pistol champion, told the committee on commerce of the American Bar association.

Mr. Frederick asserted that most organizations seeking to prevent crime spend too much time considering the regulation of pistol sales when, as a matter of fact, only 2 per cent of pistols are owned by criminals. He urged to committee to consider the other 98 per cent of pistol owners who are law-abiding citizens.

"When you attempt to regulate the sale of side arms," said Mr. Frederick, "you do not hit the criminal, because he can always make a pistol. It is a simple matter, and any high school youngster who knows anything about chemistry can manufacture gunpowder."

"You cannot attempt to check crime by regulating pistol sales, because pistols do not cause crime. You must get to the root of the evil. End all political affiliation with crime and you are making good progress. Only the reformer believes that crime can be cured by legislation."

COMBATING THE MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT MENACE

Several states have embarked on intensive campaigns to lower the gigantic annual toll of deaths and injuries caused by automobiles.

During 1930, Maryland has suspended the licenses of 994 drivers, revoked 761, and refused license applications from 1,262, for such offenses as drunken driving, failure to stop after accidents, and driving at extremely high speeds.

The New York safety responsibility law not only suspends or revokes the licenses of reckless or incompetent drivers, but provides that before they can be relicensed they must provide proof of their ability to satisfy damages that may accrue from future accidents, either by cash deposit, bond, or insurance policy.

Connecticut has adopted a plan by which drivers who have accidents must pay higher rates for insurance than careful drivers.

The trend throughout the entire nation is toward modernized, strictly enforced traffic codes, laws making examination of potential drivers necessary, and severe punishments when motorists are inexcusably incompetent or careless. Something is tragically wrong when 30,000 persons can be killed and 750,000 seriously injured in a single year by motorists.

Konjola Ended Neuritis and Kidney Trouble

Well Known Waco Photographer Enthusiastic About New Medicine. "Proven Wonderful Remedy," He Says.

MR. H. O. BRUBAKER

"I suffered for six years with neuritis, kidney trouble, and constipation," said Mr. H. O. Brubaker, well known photographer, residing at 623 1/2 Austin avenue, Waco. "My ankles and my limbs above the knees were badly swollen and gave me considerable trouble. It became an effort for me to walk. My kidneys were out of order, making night risings necessary and causing me to lose restful sleep. My eyesight seemed to be failing on account of these conditions."

"Much to my surprise, I began to get immediate results after taking this medicine. The swelling left my ankles and limbs, and I became stronger. I can now go about my work without stopping to rest. I have been relieved of constipation, and my eyesight has improved since taking this medicine. I have and will continue to recommend Konjola to all who suffer from such ailments as I had. Konjola has proven to me that it is a different and wonderful medicine. It certainly proved its merit in my case."

Konjola was not designed to afford mere temporary relief. Taken systematically, over a period of from six to eight weeks, this medicine will amaze sufferers by the results obtained.

Konjola is sold in Canyon, Texas, at Jarrett's Drug Co., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

THE BACKLOG OF CREDIT

Potatoes are not nearly as fashionable at a party as avacadoes.

Beans are not as stylish on the hotel menu as frog legs.

Salt pork doesn't have the same rank at the banquet table as does caviar.

An insurance policy against fires and accidents, lying in the safe, is not as thrilling to the owner as a steamship ticket to Europe.

But the work and progress of the world are carried forward by the millions of people who live largely on such food as potatoes, beans, and salt pork.

The security, credit, and pleasure of the world is guaranteed by the insurance policy that stands back of every commercial enterprise. Without the protection of insurance, the reasonably-priced railroad and the steamship ticket would be impossible and security for invested capital which employs the millions of workers who consume our potatoes, beans, and salt pork, would be lacking.

The story of insurance is the story of the growth of modern civilization.

THE CRIME INDUSTRY

Seventy per cent of the crime in this country is committed by an organized industry, and chances for the criminal member to escape are 85 per cent in his favor, Karl Frederick, former amateur pistol champion, told the committee on commerce of the American Bar association.

Mr. Frederick asserted that most organizations seeking to prevent crime spend too much time considering the regulation of pistol sales when, as a matter of fact, only 2 per cent of pistols are owned by criminals. He urged to committee to consider the other 98 per cent of pistol owners who are law-abiding citizens.

"When you attempt to regulate the sale of side arms," said Mr. Frederick, "you do not hit the criminal, because he can always make a pistol. It is a simple matter, and any high school youngster who knows anything about chemistry can manufacture gunpowder."

"You cannot attempt to check crime by regulating pistol sales, because pistols do not cause crime. You must get to the root of the evil. End all political affiliation with crime and you are making good progress. Only the reformer believes that crime can be cured by legislation."

COMBATING THE MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT MENACE

Several states have embarked on intensive campaigns to lower the gigantic annual toll of deaths and injuries caused by automobiles.

During 1930, Maryland has suspended the licenses of 994 drivers, revoked 761, and refused license applications from 1,262, for such offenses as drunken driving, failure to stop after accidents, and driving at extremely high speeds.

The New York safety responsibility law not only suspends or revokes the licenses of reckless or incompetent drivers, but provides that before they can be relicensed they must provide proof of their ability to satisfy damages that may accrue from future accidents, either by cash deposit, bond, or insurance policy.

Connecticut has adopted a plan by which drivers who have accidents must pay higher rates for insurance than careful drivers.

The trend throughout the entire nation is toward modernized, strictly enforced traffic codes, laws making examination of potential drivers necessary, and severe punishments when motorists are inexcusably incompetent or careless. Something is tragically wrong when 30,000 persons can be killed and 750,000 seriously injured in a single year by motorists.

Umbarger Takes Game With Canyon

Umbarger eked out a well-earned 7 to 6 victory over the Canyon Cliff Dwellers Sunday afternoon on the Umbarger diamond. Playing the first game of the season under the management of Carl Laugherty, the Canyon team exhibited possibilities of developing into a good team before the summer is over.

Errors were the only cause attributed for the loss of the game by Canyon. Umbarger was held in good check except for the costly errors by men who were somewhat stiff in the first game.

The affair was a 10-frame session and was witnessed by a large crowd from both places.

The Cliff Dwellers will play the Palo Duro team at Palo Duro Sunday. A game will be booked for Monday afternoon. Manager Laugherty states. It is expected that the locals will cross bats with the Sunny Side team.

Expect School Enrollment to Show Big Gain

The enrollment of the Canyon public schools during the year 1929-1930 increased 103 over the previous year, according to Superintendent Carruth. He states that indications are that there will be an increase of at least 150 during 1930-1931 over the school year just closing.

This, he explains, is brought about by the new state law which lowers the compulsory school age from seven years to six. The increase makes it necessary for the employment of at least one more teacher for the first grade.

MURDER

One person out of every ten thousand is murdered every year in the United States. That does not mean that your chance of not being murdered is only ten thousand to one. For the ordinary peaceable citizen the chance is nearer a million to one that he will die at the hands of a murderer. Most of the murderers' victims are themselves potential murderers. In probably half of the killings it is a question of which criminal got the drop on the other.

I lived several years in Chicago, many years in New York. My work as a newspaper man took me into the most dangerous parts of both cities at all hours of the night. I never felt the need of carrying a weapon and I never knew of anybody not a crook, who was sober, unarmed, and not displaying signs of wealth to tempt a footpad or a burglar, being murdered except by some crazy man, which might have happened anywhere.

PROPHETS

The voice of the prophet is still heard in the land, but it is the voice of the scientific research worker discovering new processes which will revolutionize some industry, and of the trade commissioner reporting these new developments to manufacturers.

A short time ago one of the Government's trade commissioners reported from Berlin that German chemists had found a new and cheap way to make methanol, usually called "wood alcohol." The Department of Commerce broadcast that news to every producer of methanol in America. Only one paid any attention; he sent a man to Germany to find out more about it. The others sat tight until, a few months later a shipload of the new German methanol arrived in New York, to be sold at less than the American cost of production. Then the manufacturers demanded to know why they had not been told. They simply had not listened.

All of the old plants for making methanol had to be scrapped and new ones constructed to make it by the new process, and the man who had listened to the prophets was the first American in the field with cheap methanol.

MOON

The hottest object anywhere near the Earth is the Moon. Also it is the coldest. Observers using the 100-inch telescope on Mount Wilson have been measuring the moon's temperature for a year. They report that the parts of the moon on which the sun shines are hotter than boiling water, and the side away from the sun is at least 254 degrees below zero.

The reason for this is that the moon is a dry, dead mass of cooled-off lava, or melted rock. It has no water, no vegetation, no life, nothing to make clouds to temper the rays of the sun. If it were not for water vapor in the earth's atmosphere we could not live on it. The blanket of vapor keeps the heat from the sun from burning us up in the daytime, prevents that heat from escaping at night.

One way astronomers can tell whether other planets than ours are probably inhabited or not is by studying their atmosphere through their great telescope. The only one on which it seems possible for life as we know it to exist is Mars. When the new 200-inch telescope is finished we shall probably get some evidence as to the population of Mars.

SPERRY

Elmer Sperry, inventor, has just retired from business at 72. He probably will keep on inventing. He built the first electric lighting station in the world, using arc lights, before Edison invented the incandescent bulb. He invented the modern electric coal-mining machinery. He made the first electric automobile. He invented a process for extracting chlorine and alkali from common salt which forms the basis of one of the great electric power industries at Niagara Falls. He discovered a way of reclaiming tin from old tin cans, founding a business which buys tin scraps from the can factories, removes the tin and sells it to silk manufacturers to weight their goods and melts up the iron plates into window-sash weights. He invented and built the most powerful searchlights in the world, giving off more candle power per square inch of surface than the sun itself, and now used by every Army and Navy in the world.

Sperry is best known as the inventor of "Metal Mike," the automatic steersman for ships, utilizing the mysterious principle of the gyroscope. He invented the gyroscopic compass, the gyroscopic stabilizer for ships and for airplanes.

One of his recent inventions tells railroad men whether there are hidden flaws in their rails. His latest is a light weight Diesel type engine for airplanes. Only Edison has produced more useful inventions than Elmer Sperry.

Company F. Is Getting Ready For Encampment

Company F, Canyon's unit of the National Guard, seems to be making satisfactory progress. Eighteen recruits have been enlisted during the past three months, and all the work is being planned as preparation for the summer encampment at Palacios. This encampment will be held the first two weeks in August. There is a new order out from regimental headquarters which forbids the enlistment of a recruit for the summer encampment after June 1, unless the soldier has had 60 days' military training. Heretofore several men would enlist only a few days before the encampment. This new order will reduce the number of men who have usually made the summer trip.

During the last few weeks most of the drills have been held out of doors, which seems to please the men. The armory is not very well ventilated and the evenings have been rather warm, consequently Captain Lockhart has ordered the drills to be carried on outside. Last Monday evening the citizens of Canyon were surprised to see about 50 soldiers marching and going through various formations on the public square and streets. All the officers, Captain Lockhart, Lieutenant McDonald and Lieutenant Shephard, are working hard, and express themselves as well satisfied with the showing the men are making.

The target shooting for the season is almost completed. More than 30 per cent of the members of the company have qualified as "marksmen," and several will probably rank as "sharpshooters." Captain Lockhart and Sergeant Kahlbau are leading in the pistol shooting, both having qualified in the highest class—that of "expert." In order to be rated as "expert" a man must make above 85 per cent on all the ranges. To hit a small target 85 times out of a hundred is easier to say than to shoot.

A few enlistments expire before August, leaving room for two or three recruits. Any young man who wishes to make the trip with Company F to Palacios should see Lieutenant McDonald about enlisting before June 1.

American Home is Subject of Rotary Club on Tuesday

Lee Johnson gave a classification talk on the lumber business at the luncheon of the Rotary club Tuesday. "The American Home" was chosen as the subject of the talk by Mr. Johnson. There is no industry so closely allied with the makers of homes as that of the lumber business. Lumber is the foundation of all building, although various substitutes are sought to be introduced.

Mr. Johnson advised those who would build to consult freely the lumber dealer. He knows the best grades, and the best styles. He knows whether or not the substitutes offered for lumber are good and reliable.

The lumber man renders a real community service, according to the speaker. The lumber yard is among the first businesses to open in a town. It takes an active part in community development, and in all community affairs.

Mr. Johnson discussed the chain lumber companies. All operating in Texas originated from the one-man-owned yard, and the owners gradually spread out, investing their profits in new fields to render more service rather than make other kinds of investments with their profits. Ninety per cent of the sales made by lumber yards are on credit, therefore it takes a great amount of capital to operate. The more capital invested the greater is the service rendered to the community.

The trophies won by the Canyon Boy Scouts, sponsored by the Rotary club, were shown by C. W. West, scoutmaster.

Dr. M. W. Cunningham of Amarillo stated that 40 years ago this month he came to the Panhandle. He drove from Amarillo to Canyon and filed on a section of land, and then drove back to Amarillo. He made 52 miles by horse and buggy that one day, and "has been going some ever since."

Nineteen Amarillo Rotarians were present. Talks were made by Ross Rogers, past president of the Amarillo Rotary club, and by Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the Tri-State Fair association.

Guests present Tuesday were: Walter Barlow, Wilbur Hawk, Norris Ewing, W. A. Smith, Harry Foster, R. A. Duncan, R. G. Piller, Dick Wingate, George Harley, A. F. Agee, C. D. Agee, Dr. Cunningham, Frank Satterfield, H. V. Krump, Arthur Ossgood, George Stapleton, C. W. Smith, T. W. Holman, B. E. Masters, Ross Rogers, all of Amarillo; A. D. Cummings of Floydada; C. W. West and T. V. Reeves of Canyon.

Amarillo Class Of Chemistry Is Taught By Pierle

An extension class in charge of Dr. C. A. Pierle has recently been opened in Amarillo, with 12 members. The class is studying general chemistry, and students in it are all employed in the laboratories of industrial plants in Amarillo. Several of the men are college graduates who want to fit themselves for better positions than they now hold. The class was established through the request of Mr. Travis, of the Amarillo smelter, who wanted an opportunity for his men to study under an instructor who knew both class room chemistry and industrial work.

The class meets twice each week in Amarillo for lectures, and once each week at the college building in Canyon, where the chemical laboratory facilities are available. Dr. Pierle states that a class made up of students who know why they are studying a subject accomplishes far more in a class period than the average class of inexperienced college students.

Out of the Air

A check for $500 for convict X46812, radio hero of the Columbus penitentiary here, has been mailed to the Ohio state prison, by Bill Paley, CBS head. It has been revealed that this convict is Otto V. Gardner, colored secretary of the Protestant church in the penitentiary. The check was a reward for the "lifer's" masterly description of the holocaust over the radio.

Ten years ago, Tommy Christian, now 28, whose orchestra broadcasts over the WABC chain, met his fate. While flying over Georgia, his plane went into a tailspin over a large plantation. Tommy plunged out in a parachute, landed in a pigsty so tangled up in "chute cords" that he would have been trampled upon by the indignant porkers if it had not been for the timely arrival of a ravishing brunette. A few days later, the brunette was so flustered that she was saying "positively" instead of "I do" and the minister made them take the wedding ceremony over again.

American sport fans had the opportunity to listen in on an account of one of England's football classics, recently, for the first time in the history of radio. The cup final of the British Football association was described by the English commentator in much the same rapid, enthusiastic manner as that of our own McNamee. His accent and rugby football terms may have puzzled the listener over here, but his expressions, "Hurl it," "lashing it up the field," "kills it," and "hooks it," delighted many of the fans.

Lillian Russell once ordered from Mme. Rosa Binner the most expensive corsage ever made. It had diamond buckles and diamond studded garters. The price was $39,000. Madame Binner broadcasts during the Home-Markers hour of the CBS. Not only does she tell of Lillian Russell, but also of the late Empress of Austria, Queen Mary of England, Anna Held, the Vanderbilts, all of whom she helped to "form" when wasp-like waists were the fashion.

DID YOU KNOW—

That William S. (Bill) Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting company, the largest single chain of radio stations in the world, is only 29 years old?

That Mary Lewis, European grand opera star, who broadcasts during the Atwater Kent hour, started in her musical career in a Texas church choir; joined the Greenwich Village Follies, then Ziegfeld's Follies, and finally became the prima donna of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co.?

That Floyd Gibbons, the NBC Headline Hunter, was a passenger on the ill-fated Laconia, whose sinking by a German submarine precipitated the United States into the World War? His 4,000-word cable report of the sinking startled the nation into activity.

That Nick Kenny said a theme song it probably would be a steam song? Bring on that callopie!

Once a star of the first magnitude, her name blazed on Broadway's bright lights. She retained some of the dignity with which she once graced the nation's greatest stages when she approached the telephone girl on the thirteenth floor of the National Broadcasting building.

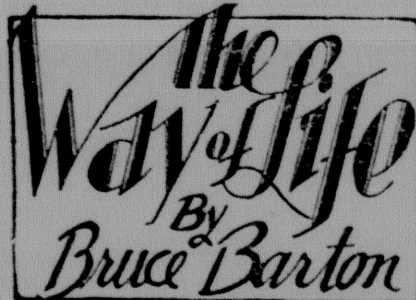

"May I see the president of the company, please?" she asked. He was out of the city. The visitor went down the line learning that the vice-president, the general manager, and so on, were not available at that hour.

Silent for a moment, she spoke again, this time in a rather wistful and hesitant tone: "I wonder—do you suppose—they could find me a job—something like you're doing?"

On road building and maintenance and administration of the highway department the state of Texas in 1929 spent nearly $35,000,000.

Salesman: These shirts simply laugh at the laundry.

Customer: That's why they come back with their sides split.

A LETTER TO A YOUNG MAN

You ask me how you can get a better job.

My answer is that you can't.

All over the country are millions of young men who, in a vague sort of way want "a" better job; and here and there among them are the worth-while few who want "the" better job.

And the millions wonder why the few move on, while they stand stationary year after year.

You must, first of all, pick out "the" better job—some particular job that is better than yours. Then train your guns on that and capture it.

You tell me that you are a bookkeeper, and that you earn $25 a week.

I know a certified public accountant who earns $10,000 a year, and more.

If I were a bookkeeper earning $25 a week, I should go out for a public accountant's job. I might die on the road, but whoever found my body would notice that my face was toward the summit.

Second: You can never make anybody pay you more until you have more to sell.

I can advertise in a newspaper tomorrow morning and have a hundred bright young men here at 8 o'clock. Each one will have just as much to offer me as you have; the same two years of high school; the same experience in keeping books, the same good record. Every one of them will be willing to work for $25, and some of them for $18—or even less.

The only way that you can lift yourself out of that $25 class is by giving yourself an equipment that the rest of the fellows in that class do not have. In other words, by study—by education—by specialized training.

Third: When you have picked out the one particular better job that you want, when you have fitted yourself for it, then be careful of your letter of application.

Your letter is your representative. For heaven's sake, if you have in your work any spark of originality that other men have not, make your letter a tiny bit different from the other letters that the other men will write.

Fourth: I receive many letters of application. In one form or another they usually say something like this: "I want a better job; I am thinking of getting married"; or "I have a mother to support"; or "I have been three years in this place without a raise and see no future."

All of which interests me not at all.

The only letter that I read with interest is the letter of the young man who has studied my business and who points out to me how I can make more money for my employer by employing him.

Idea is the key that unlocks big men's doors.

When you have fitted yourself for the better job, let your letter of appreciation contain an idea.

THE FIDDLERS

It was at a concert in New York where a celebrated teacher of the violin was exhibiting his pupils. A boy of 18 stepped on the stage and began to play. A hush fell over the room. His face, his fingers, every move and look proclaimed an embryo artist.

With easy assurance, in which was no trace of effort, he played one number after another, the audience urging him on with enthusiastic applause. Each of us felt the thrill of personally discovering this new star in the musical heavens. The concert over, a gentleman rushed forward to congratulate the teacher.

"You must be wonderfully proud of that brilliant boy!" he exclaimed. The teacher was unresponsive.

"Not very proud," he said.

"But surely he will be a master?"

"No. He will probably be a fiddler in a restaurant."

The man was a bit indignant. Was this coolness born of professional jealousy—the envy of an older man for the brilliant youth? The teacher did not leave him long in doubt.

"The boy could be a master," he explained, "but he never will. Some of the others who performed less well today you will hear from later. But he—no. He will be a fiddler. It comes too easy; he will not work."

If you have read much of biography, you know the teacher was right. Nothing is more impressive than the infinite pains which great men have taken, not merely to gain position, but to keep it.

Emerson tells of a letter from an artist friend describing Michael Angelo's huge mural painting of the Last Judgment, which the friend "had the opportunity of seeing very near, and was astonished at the minute finish of the muscles and nerves, finished like a miniature."

No detail was too small for the artist whose shoulders were bent by the long effort of finishing his immortal pictures under the dome of St. Peter's.

Booth, the great actor, was never satisfied. One night, after a performance in which he seemed to the audience to have surpassed himself, a friend went to congratulate him.

He "found Booth with his head in his hands, in the deepest dejection, from which not even the praise of an old friend could arouse him, and disgusted at having given so miserable a performance."

Whether great success is worth what it costs, or whether mediocrity is a happier state are debatable questions. But there is no secret about the formula. Eternal work is the difference between the artist—and the fiddler.

BY BRUCE BARTON

I REASSURE A MOTHER

A mother writes me about her son's reading. Among other things, she says:

"I spite of all I can do or say, he insists on reading stories. How can I correct this habit?"

Frankly, madam, I do not know. It is about as easy to cure a boy of eating as it is to destroy his love for good stories.

Centuries before there was any writing, story-tellers drifted about from village to village, gathering the people together and telling them stories.

The love of fiction is as old as that—older than recorded history, older even than civilization. It can not be rooted out; its roots run back too far.

And why should you want to root it out?

The greatest Teacher that ever lived spent half His time telling stories to His disciples. "Without a parable (a story) He taught them nothing." These stories have transformed humanity.

One great story written in our own country, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," so stirred men's hearts that they said "Slavery must go."

Good stories will not hurt your boy; they may, if he is the right kind of boy, inspire him to real achievement.

And they will do something else to him, equally important. They will develop his imagination.

We have too little regard for the high value of the imagination, we Americans. We are too matter-of-fact. We forget that all great inventions, all great discoveries, all great achievements in science or business, came to pass because some man first had imagination enough to conceive them.

Many men have been hit on the head by a falling apple. Newton, when the apple hit him, had imagination enough to formulate the law of gravitation.

Many men have been burned by their wives' tea-kettles. Watt had imagination enough to conceive the steam-engine.

Look through the pages of history and you will discover that the leaders of men have been those who could dream great dream and carry them out—the men of powerful, intelligent imagination.

Because this is true, the editor of a magazine that prints stories has a responsibility that he must take seriously if he is any sort of man at all. He is entrusted with the duty of stimulating the imagination of thousands of children of mothers like you.

He may, if he choose, publish stories whose appeal is to the baser side of the imagination—and even achieve a certain sort of circulation increase for his magazine by so doing. Or he may regard every mother among his readers as if she were his own mother, and every mother's son as a younger brother.

You need not concern yourself because your boy likes stories. But are the stories he reads the right kind of stories—do they appeal to his imagination on its best and highest side?

That is the important question for you.

Maurice Crain of New York city has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Crain, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Black and son visited the Carlsbad cavern last week.

Father: I don't like to see our daughter lighting cigarettes. Modern Mother: Oh, don't be old-fashioned, John.

Father: It isn't that. She's too young to be playing with matches.

"You look very downcast."

"Yes; my wife has been away for six weeks and I wrote her every week and said I spent the evenings at home."

"Well?"

"She is back now and the light bill has come in—it's for 50 cents."

Girl: This is where that young fellow I told you about grabbed me and kissed me.

Homely Friend: Let's hang about for a bit. They say they always revisit the scene of a crime.

Texas shipped 48,816 carloads of fruits and vegetables in 1929, exclusive of 1 c. i. shipments, estimated at 3,000 carloads.

Waitress: Don't you like your college pudding, sir?

Diner: No, miss; I think there is an egg in it which should have been expelled.

Business Man: Do you think you know enough to be useful in this office?

Boy: Know enough? Why, I left my last place because the boss said I knew too much.

C. of C. Dinner Held on Monday Well Attended

Setting a precedent of dinners and "feeds" in general, the Chamber of Commerce dinner held at the First Methodist church Monday evening began promptly and closed promptly at the appointed time.

Approximately 50 city and farm business men were in attendance at the dinner. The farmers were guests of Canyon people. Brief talks were made by the majority of those present. The chief discussion was along lines relative to what aid the local commercial body could render on marketing conditions.

There was no set program of the evening, and all formalities were abolished. In spirit the meeting was one of very friendly relationship between the Canyon people and their guests of the evening. Such meetings will bring about a closer relationship between the business man of the farm and the business man of the town.

L. N. George was toastmaster at the dinner. In making a few preliminary remarks, J. W. Kleinschmidt, president of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that talks of the evening were to be limited to two and one-half minutes.

M. H. Rockwell, the first on the impromptu program, stated that in the 55 years he has spent on the farm he has learned that he carried on dairying to pay off the debts that the farm failed to pay and that he farmed to grow feed for the cows. He closed his few remarks with an appeal for a closer relationship between the business man on the farm and the business man in the stores.

Ray V. Davis stressed co-operation between the two.

George Cox stated that as a farmer he would appreciate anything that would be done for the benefit of the farmer. He expressed himself in belief that the real work was in educating the farmer to make his farm a business, just the same as the man in the town did his.

In discussing the marketing conditions, T. C. Thompson urged that the farmer give more consideration to the preparation of his product to be marketed. He pointed to the fact that the farmer did not buy unbranded goods, but on the other hand looked to the brand for his protection in buying.

Mr. Oberst followed the line of discussion of Mr. Thompson in that he stated he believed the farmer could remedy the market situation to some extent by watching the quality of his product. It is his experience that better marketing methods have paid him for the extra trouble and expense in marketing his products on a quality basis.

Musical numbers were rendered by Alfred Jameson and Miss Estelline Harris, with Miss Thelma McMinn at the piano.

Visiting farmers present Monday evening were: W. W. Wimberly, George W. Cox, Henry Miller, Scott Downing, E. A. Oberst, Mrs. Elsie Money, M. H. Rockwell, Eliza Price, Bill Ash, Tom Dowlen, H. R. Fulton, and Albert Byars.

Out of the Air

A check for $500 for convict X46812, radio hero of the Columbus penitentiary hero, has been mailed to the Ohio state prison, by Bill Paley, CBS head. It has been revealed that this convict is Otto V. Gardner, colored secretary of the Protestant church in the penitentiary. The check was a reward for the "lifer's" masterly description of the holocaust over the radio.

Ten years ago, Tommy Christian, now 28, whose orchestra broadcasts over the WABC chain, met his fate. While flying over Georgia, his plane went into a tailspin over a large plantation. Tommy plunged out in a parachute, landed in a pigsty so tangled up in 'chute cords that he would have been trampled upon by the indignant porkers if it had not been for the timely arrival of a ravishing brunette. A few days later, the brunette was so flustered that she was saying "positively" instead of "I do" and the minister made them take the wedding ceremony over again.

American sport fans had the opportunity to listen in on an account of one of England's football classics, recently, for the first time in the history of radio. The cup final of the British Football association was described by the English commentator in much the same rapid, enthusiastic manner as that of our own McNamee. His accent and rugby football terms may have puzzled the listener over here, but his expressions, "Hurls it," "lashing it up the field," "kills it," and "nooks it," delighted many of the fans.

Lillian Russell once ordered from Mme. Rosa Binner the most expensive corset ever made. It had diamond buckles and diamond studded garters. The price was $39,000. Madame Binner broadcasts during the Home-Markers hour of the CBS. Not only does she tell of Lillian Russell, but also of the late Empress of Austria, Queen Mary of England, Anna Held, the Vanderbilts, all of whom she helped to "form" when wasp-like waists were the fashion.

DID YOU KNOW—

That William S. (Bill) Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting company, the largest single chain of radio stations in the world, is only 29 years old?

That Mary Lewis, European grand opera star, who broadcasts during the Atwater Kent hour, started in her musical career in a Texas church choir; joined the Greenwich Village Polles, then Ziegfeld's Polles, and finally became the prima donna of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Co.?

That Floyd Gibbons, the NBC Headline Hunter, was a passenger on the ill-fated Laconia, whose sinking by a German submarine precipitated the entrance of the United States into the World War? His 4,000-word cable report of the sinking startled the nation into activity.

That Nick Kenny said if the American Radiator had a theme song it probably would be a steam song? Bring on that callopie!

Once a star of the first magnitude, her name blazed on Broadway's bright lights.

She retained some of the dignity with which she once graced the nation's greatest stages when she approached the telephone girl on the thirteenth floor of the National Broadcasting building.

"May I see the president of the company, please?" she asked.

He was out of the city. The visitor went down the line learning that the vice-president, the general manager, and so on, were not available at that hour.

Silent for a moment, she spoke again, this time in a rather wistful and hesitant tone: "I wonder—do you suppose—they could find me a job—something like you're doing?"

On road building and maintenance and administration of the highway department the state of Texas in 1929 spent nearly $35,000,000.

Salesman: These shirts simply laugh at the laundry.

Customer: That's why they come back with their sides split.

The Way of Life By Bruce Barton

A LETTER TO A YOUNG MAN

You ask me how you can get a better job.

My answer is that you can't.

All over the country are millions of young men who, in a vague sort of way want "a" better job; and here and there among them are the worth-while few who want "the" better job.

And the millions wonder why the few move on, while they stand stationary year after year.

You must, first of all, pick out "the" better job—some particular job that is better than yours. Then train your guns on that and capture it.

You tell me that you are a bookkeeper, and that you earn $25 a week.

I know a certified public accountant who earns $10,000 a year, and more.

If I were a bookkeeper earning $25 a week, I should go out for a public accountant's job. I might die on the road, but whoever found my body would notice that my face was toward the summit.

Second: You can never make anybody pay you more until you have more to sell.

I can advertise in a newspaper tomorrow morning and have a hundred bright young men here at 8 o'clock. Each one will have just as much to offer me as you have; the same two years of high school; the same experience in keeping books, the same good record. Every one of them will be willing to work for $25, and some of them for $18—or even less.

The only way that you can lift yourself out of that $25 class is by giving yourself an equipment that the rest of the fellows in that class do not have. In other words, by study—by education—by specialized training.

Third: When you have picked out the one particular better job that you want, when you have fitted yourself for it, then be careful of your letter of application.

Your letter is your representative. For heaven's sake, if you have in your work any spark of originality that other men have not, make your letter a tiny bit different from the other letters that the other men will write.

Fourth: I receive many letters of application. In one form or another they usually say something like this: "I want a better job; I am thinking of getting married"; or "I have a mother to support"; or "I have been three years in this place without a raise and see no future."

All of which interests me not at all.

The only letter that I read with interest is the letter of the young man who has studied my business and who points out to me how I can make more money for my employer by employing him.

Idea is the key that unlocks big men's doors.

When you have fitted yourself for the better job, let your letter of appreciation contain an idea.

THE FIDDLERS

It was at a concert in New York where a celebrated teacher of the violin was exhibiting his pupils. A boy of 18 stepped on the stage and began to play. A hush fell over the room. His face, his fingers, every move and look proclaimed an embryo artist.

With easy assurance, in which was no trace of effort, he played one number after another, the audience urging him on with enthusiastic applause. Each of us felt the thrill of personally discovering this new star in the musical heavens. The concert over, a gentleman rushed forward to congratulate the teacher.

"You must be wonderfully proud of that brilliant boy!" he exclaimed. The teacher was unresponsive.

"Not very proud," he said.

"But surely he will be a master?"

"No. He will probably be a fiddler in a restaurant."

The man was a bit indignant. Was this coolness born of professional jealousy—the envy of an older man for the brilliant youth? The teacher did not leave him long in doubt.

"The boy could be a master," he explained, "but he never will. Some of the others who performed less well today you will hear from later. But he—no. He will be a fiddler. It comes too easy; he will not work."

If you have read much of biography, you know the teacher was right. Nothing is more impressive than the infinite pains which great men have taken, not merely to gain position, but to keep it.

Emerson tells of a letter from an artist friend describing Michael Angelo's huge mural painting of the Last Judgment, which the friend "had the opportunity of seeing very near, and was astonished at the minute finish of the muscles and nerves, finished like a miniature."

No detail was too small for the artist whose shoulders were bent by the long effort of finishing his immortal pictures under the dome of St. Peter's.

Booth, the great actor, was never satisfied. One night, after a performance in which he seemed to the audience to have surpassed himself, a friend went to congratulate him.

He "found Booth with his head in his hands, in the deepest dejection, from which not even the praise of an old friend could arouse him, and disgusted at having given so miserable a performance."

Whether great success is worth what it costs, or whether mediocrity is a happier state are debatable questions. But there is no secret about the formula. Eternal work is the difference between the artist—and the fiddler.

BY BRUCE BARTON

I REASSURE A MOTHER

A mother writes me about her son's reading. Among other things, she says:

"I spite of all I can do or say, he insists on reading stories. How can I correct this habit?"

Frankly, madam, I do not know. It is about as easy to cure a boy of eating as it is to destroy his love for good stories.

Centuries before there was any writing, story-tellers drifted about from village to village, gathering the people together and telling them stories.

The love of fiction is as old as that—older than recorded history, older even than civilization. It can not be rooted out; its roots run back too far.

And why should you want to root it out?

The greatest Teacher that ever lived spent half His time telling stories to His disciples. "Without a parable (a story) He taught them nothing." These stories have transformed humanity.

One great story written in our own country, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," so stirred men's hearts that they said "Slavery must go."

Good stories will not hurt your boy; they may, if he is the right kind of boy, inspire him to real achievement.

And they will do something else to him, equally important. They will develop his imagination.

We have too little regard for the high value of the imagination, we Americans. We are too matter-of-fact. We forget that all great inventions, all great discoveries, all great achievements in science or business, came to pass because some man first had imagination enough to conceive them.

Many men have been hit on the head by a falling apple. Newton, when the apple hit him, had imagination enough to formulate the law of gravitation.

Many men have been burned by their wives' tea-kettles. Watt had imagination enough to conceive the steam-engine.

Look through the pages of history and you will discover that the leaders of men have been those who could dream great dreams and carry them out—the men of powerful, intelligent imagination.

Because this is true, the editor of a magazine that prints stories has a responsibility that he must take seriously if he is any sort of man at all. He is entrusted with the duty of stimulating the imagination of thousands of childrens of mothers like you.

He may, if he choose, publish stories whose appeal is to the baser side of the imagination—and even achieve a certain sort of circulation increase for his magazine by so doing. Or he may regard every mother among his readers as if she were his own mother, and every mother's son as a younger brother.

You need not concern yourself because your boy likes stories. But are the stories he reads the right kind of stories—do they appeal to his imagination on its best and highest side?

That is the important question for you.

Maurice Crain of New York city has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Crain, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Black and son visited the Carlsbad cavern last week.

Father: I don't like to see our daughter lighting cigarettes.

Modern Mother: Oh, don't be old-fashioned, John.

Father: It isn't that. She's too young to be playing with matches.

"You look very downcast."

"Yes; my wife has been away for six weeks and I wrote her every week and said I spent the evenings at home."

"Well?"

"She is back now and the light bill has come in—it's for 50 cents."

Girl: This is where that young fellow I told you about grabbed me and kissed me.

Homely Friend: Let's hang about for a bit. They say they always revisit the scene of a crime.

Texas shipped 48,816 carloads of fruits and vegetables in 1929, exclusive of 1 c. l. shipments, estimated at 3,000 carloads.

Waitress: Don't you like your college pudding, sir?

Diner: No, miss; I think there is an egg in it which should have been expelled.

Business Man: Do you think you know enough to be useful in this office?

Boy: Know enough? Why, I left my last place because the boss said I knew too much.

C. of C. Dinner Held on Monday Well Attended

Setting a precedent of dinners and "feeds" in general, the Chamber of Commerce dinner held at the First Methodist church Monday evening began promptly and closed promptly at the appointed time.

Approximately 50 city and farm business men were in attendance at the dinner. The farmers were guests of Canyon people. Brief talks were made by the majority of those present. The chief discussion was along lines relative to what aid the local commercial body could render on marketing conditions.

There was no set program of the evening, and all formalities were abolished. In spirit the meeting was one of very friendly relationship between the Canyon people and their guests of the evening. Such meetings will bring about a closer relationship between the business man of the farm and the business man of the town.

L. N. George was toastmaster at the dinner. In making a few preliminary remarks, J. W. Kleinschmidt, president of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that talks of the evening were to be limited to two and one-half minutes.

M. H. Rockwell, the first on the impromptu program, stated that in the 55 years he has spent on the farm he has learned that he carried on dairying to pay off the debts that the farm failed to pay and that he farmed to grow feed for the cows. He closed his few remarks with an appeal for a closer relationship between the business man on the farm and the business man in the stores.

Ray V. Davis stressed co-operation between the two.

George Cox stated that as a farmer he would appreciate anything that would be done for the benefit of the farmer. He expressed himself in belief that the real work was in educating the farmer to make his farm a business, just the same as the man in the town did his.

In discussing the marketing conditions, T. C. Thompson urged that the farmer give more consideration to the preparation of his product to be marketed. He pointed to the fact that the farmer did not buy unbranded goods, but on the other hand looked to the brand for his protection in buying.

Mr. Oberst followed the line of discussion of Mr. Thompson in that he stated he believed the farmer could remedy the market situation to some extent by watching the quality of his product. It is his experience that better marketing methods have paid him for the extra trouble and expense in marketing his products on a quality basis.

Musical numbers were rendered by Alfred Jameson and Miss Estelline Harris, with Miss Thelma McMinn at the piano.

Visiting farmers present Monday evening were: W. W. Wimberly, George W. Cox, Henry Miller, Scott Downing, E. A. Oberst, Mrs. Elsie Money, M. H. Rockwell, Elza Price, Bill Ash, Tom Dowlen, H. R. Fulton, and Albert Byars.

FORT WORTH EDITOR HERE

James R. Record, managing editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was in Canyon for a short while Tuesday. Mr. Record visited with President Hill at the college, Senator J. W. Reid, and at the News office, while in Canyon. He is at this time making an extensive tour over the western part of the state.

Mr. Record stated that he considers the collection of historical objects and manuscripts at Canyon a surprisingly fine contribution to Texas, and that he hopes the museum project of the society will be successfully carried through during this year.

Well, well, and well, maybe the campaign to let the Cute College Kiddos ride is going to be successful. Maybe so, anyway.

You see, the other day I thought I would pretend I was a college dumb-bell and see what might happen. Well, I started down East Fourth to see whether this campaign was going to be a success or not.

I hadn't gone very far until I was hailed by a couple of boys in a Ford, and they handed me a ride down the street. Boy, I was beginning to feel like I had at last accomplished my aim in staging campaigns. When we stopped, I, polite-like, thanked the boys, whereupon the driver replied, "You're welcome, if you hadn't been I wouldn't have let you ride."

Folks, this negro burning down in Grayson county has brought about a lot of talk over the entire country. But one thing I have found out as a result of it, is that there are numbers and numbers of people living here in Canyon that are from Grayson and adjoining counties. Collin county seems to be in the majority.

Why not organize a Grayson-Collin County society and everybody get out here and have a big glorious party or picnic with lots and lots and lots to eat? Now, wouldn't that be just fine, to do something like that? Incidentally, I am from Grayson county myself.

Think it over, folks from the black land belt of Northeast Texas; think it over.

Give the college Kiddos a lift.

Boys, are you keeping off the grass in other people's yards?

Who would have thought it, but this town sure turns out graduates. Just think, a town of 2,821 graduating 105 from high schools. Think of it, think of it.

That's an average of one high school graduate to almost every 27 people in Canyon.

School days will soon be over for the graduates of W. T. both in the high school and the college. Good luck to you and best wishes.

The golf craze has struck the Panhandle. There is a golf course on every corner lot. And that's terrible, I'd say. Golf ain't an exclusive game any more, it's becoming more and more a commercialized business.

There's a fellow in Florida who drove 315 miles in 10 hours and 38 minutes and played 45 holes of golf on five courses in the meantime. Now an automobile company is exploiting it to the skies because he drove one of their automobiles. I tell you that golf is a business, and no more a pleasure.

But Mary's grown to be a miss,
And now she's got my goat.

Believe It or Not—Randall county has the only night club in West Texas. Of course Amarillo claims it.

Wayside Items

After much cloudy, misty and threatening weather, with but little moisture for Wayside, sun is shining, weather is cool and pleasant.

Prospects for good yields in wheat are fast passing away, for lack of moisture. Reports of hail in different sections. Little has fallen here, with no damage to speak of.

Mrs. J. C. Payne had her tonsils removed Saturday last in Amarillo, and is doing as well as could be expected. She is able to be up and about.

Rev. Zack T. Chambliss began revival services Sunday night here. All are glad to have his wife among us, also. Rev. T. D. Sumrall of Happy came in Monday night. Both are fine preachers and we are hoping and praying for a genuine revival and saving of souls.

Wyatt Heisler, wife and Billy visited his mother at Panhandle recently. They returned Monday afternoon, accompanied by Miss Lizzie Heisler and Mary Kate Bourland, who will visit with them for some time.

Mrs. Annie Heisler and Charles Bourland expected to leave Tuesday morning to visit the clinic at Temple, Texas.

A large crowd of club members, with some visitors, also several 4-H club girls, attended the meeting at Mrs. Ella Heisler's Monday afternoon. In the absence of Mrs. Heisler, Mrs. Hazel Carter and Mrs. Leila Carter acted as hostesses until her return.

Miss Phillips, demonstrator, gave us interesting talks on mothers of great men, subject of the afternoon being "Mother's Day." Mrs. G. W. Mays gave us several readings, also sang a negro song, all of which was greatly enjoyed. She consented for her name to be added to our list. Mrs. Chambliss also was a welcome visitor, and Miss Bessie Peck. Nice refreshments were served to the crowd before it dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Laycock of Claude visited Wayside Saturday. They are moving to Canyon, where they have recently purchased a home.

Quite a bevy of girls from W. T. Canyon, spent Saturday night and Sunday in Palo Duro Canyon. They were chaperoned by Mrs. L. J. McGehee and W. C. McGehee and wife. We give them credit for a big time.

Mrs. Bessie Lane joined Mrs. Nell Rogers in Happy Sunday morning, both taking the bus for Plainview to attend a re-union of the Madison brothers, Fred and Aurelius, with their sister, Mrs. Faye Christle of Arnette, Okla. T. D. Stewart and family of Lubbock also were there. Most of these were former Waysiders. An excellent dinner was served, and a good time generally was had.

Well, well, and well, maybe the campaign to let the Cute College Kiddos ride is going to be successful. Maybe so, anyway.

You see, the other day I thought I would pretend I was a college dumb-bell and see what might happen. Well, I started down East Fourth to see whether this campaign was going to be a success or not.

I hadn't gone very far until I was hailed by a couple of boys in a Ford, and they handed me a ride down the street. Boy, I was beginning to feel like I had at last accomplished my aim in staging campaigns. When we stopped, I, polite-like, thanked the boys, whereupon the driver replied, "You're welcome, if you hadn't been I wouldn't have let you ride."

Folks, this negro burning down in Grayson county has brought about a lot of talk over the entire country. But one thing I have found out as a result of it, is that there are numbers and numbers of people living here in Canyon that are from Grayson and adjoining counties. Collin county seems to be in the majority.

Why not organize a Grayson-Collin County society and everybody get out here and have a big glorious party or picnic with lots and lots and lots to eat? Now, wouldn't that be just fine, to do something like that? Incidentally, I am from Grayson county myself.

Think it over, folks from the black land belt of Northeast Texas; think it over.

Give the college Kiddos a lift.

Boys, are you keeping off the grass in other people's yards?

Who would have thought it, but this town sure turns out graduates. Just think, a town of 2,821 graduating 105 from high schools. Think of it, think of it.

That's an average of one high school graduate to almost every 27 people in Canyon.

School days will soon be over for the graduates of W. T. both in the high school and the college. Good luck to you and best wishes.

The golf craze has struck the Panhandle. There is a golf course on every corner lot. And that's terrible, I'd say. Golf ain't an exclusive game any more, it's becoming more and more a commercialized business.

There's a fellow in Florida who drove 315 miles in 10 hours and 38 minutes and played 45 holes of golf on five courses in the meantime. Now an automobile company is exploiting it to the skies because he drove one of their automobiles. I tell you that golf is a business, and no more a pleasure.

Another One on Mary

Mary had a little lamb—

That's what the poet wrote;
But Mary's grown to be a miss,
And now she's got my goat.

I know a woman who listens to every word her husband utters—in his sleep.

Believe It or Not—Randall county has the only night club in West Texas. Of course Amarillo claims it.

Wayside Items

After much cloudy, misty and threatening weather, with but little moisture for Wayside, sun is shining, weather is cool and pleasant.

Prospects for good yields in wheat are fast passing away, for lack of moisture. Reports of hail in different sections. Little has fallen here, with no damage to speak of.

Mrs. J. C. Payne had her tonsils removed Saturday last in Amarillo, and is doing as well as could be expected. She is able to be up and about.

Rev. Zack T. Chambliss began revival services Sunday night here. All are glad to have his wife among us, also. Rev. T. D. Sumrall of Happy came in Monday night. Both are fine preachers and we are hoping and praying for a genuine revival and saving of souls.

Wyatt Heisler, wife and Billy visited his mother at Panhandle recently. They returned Monday afternoon, accompanied by Miss Lizzie Heisler and Mary Kate Bourland, who will visit with them for some time.

Mrs. Annie Heisler and Charles Bourland expected to leave Tuesday morning to visit the clinic at Temple, Texas.

A large crowd of club members, with some visitors, also several 4-H club girls, attended the meeting at Mrs. Ella Heisler's Monday afternoon. In the absence of Mrs. Heisler, Mrs. Hazel Carter and Mrs. Leila Carter acted as hostesses until her return.

Miss Phillips, demonstrator, gave us interesting talks on mothers of great men, subject of the afternoon being "Mother's Day." Mrs. G. W. Mays gave us several readings, also sang a negro song, all of which was greatly enjoyed. She consented for her name to be added to our list. Mrs. Chambliss also was a welcome visitor, and Miss Bessie Peck. Nice refreshments were served to the crowd before it dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Laycock of Claude visited Wayside Saturday. They are moving to Canyon, where they have recently purchased a home.

Quite a bevy of girls from W. T. Canyon, spent Saturday night and Sunday in Palo Duro Canyon. They were chaperoned by Mrs. L. J. McGehee and W. C. McGehee and wife. We give them credit for a big time.

Mrs. Bessie Lane joined Mrs. Nell Rogers in Happy Sunday morning, both taking the bus for Plainview to attend a re-union of the Madison brothers, Fred and Aurelius, with their sister, Mrs. Faye Christie of Arnette, Okla. T. D. Stewart and family of Lubbock also were there. Most of these were former Waysiders. An excellent dinner was served, and a good time generally was had.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH

Five miles east.
Sunday school Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Services (German) at 3:30 p. m. Adult Bible class meets Monday night. Visitors are welcome in our services.

H. A. Stroebel, Pastor.

"Now, James," said the teacher. "If your father can do a piece of work in one hour and your mother can do it in one hour, how long would it take them to do it together?"

"Three hours," answered James, "counting the time they would waste in arguing."

"He must be feeling the heat just now."

"Where is he living?"

"He isn't living."

Employee: Could you give me a day off from the office, sir?
Boss: What do you want to do?
Employee: Commit suicide.

Mrs. H. B. Hales is on the sick list this week.

Mr. Hales' sister, Mrs. White of California, has been visiting him the past week.

John: I do hate having a half-brother.

Mother: You haven't any half-brother.

John: Well, what's eric? I always give him half my apple, half my candy, half my clothes, half my bath, and now he's gone and taken half my measles.

It's Up To West
Texas, States
Clint Small

"If I do not reach the second primary in the race for governor, it will be because the people of West Texas, fearing I haven't a chance, fail to support me solidly as they would otherwise," Senator Clint C. Small said Thursday while in Amarillo attending the Shrine ceremonial.

This declaration was made after a survey of conditions in other sections of the state. Since making his opening campaign speech in Amarillo three weeks ago, Senator Small has toured the Central, South and East portions of the state, including the cities of Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Beaumont, Port Arthur and others.

Finds Skepticism

"I will get more than my quota of votes in those sections," the candidate stated. "The only skepticism I have found is in West Texas, where a good many people are inclined to the belief that a West Texas candidate doesn't have a chance. The people in other sections of the state are impressed with my program, and I will get a better vote down state than I had anticipated."

"There is no opposition to a Pan-handle man in any section of the state, and no sectional feeling against West Texas. Abolishment of political strife and chaos is the universal thought in the minds of voters throughout the state. The people of the state are better united in a movement for a sane administration than ever before."

"I am greatly encouraged after my visit to other sections of the state," Senator Small continued. "and I am more strongly convinced than ever that I have a wonderful opportunity to be the next governor of Texas."

Forecasts 700,000 Vote

Senator Small pointed out that there are 250,000 voters in the section of the state lying West of Fort Worth. He foresees a total vote of 700,000 in the state. There is only one candidate west of Fort Worth, he pointed out, while almost every other section of the state is greatly divided.

"I find that the people down state believe I have West Texas sewed up, and they are willing to give me a chance. I find a universal sentiment to get away from political strife that has marked administrations of the past. They are looking for new blood; for a man with constructive ideas, who will be safe and conservative in his attitude toward business."

It's West Texas' Turn

"Down in the Rio Grande Valley, for instance, the people believe it is time for West Texas to have a governor. They believe the people of this rapidly developing territory keep better abreast of the times than they do in other parts of the state, and that the two sections have something in common since both are undergoing such rapid growth."

"I am convinced that the people are ready for a governor who will look after the interests of sound business, and who will not keep the state in turmoil because of political ambitions. There is little chance for the mud-slinging politicians to detract attention from the issues in the present campaign."

"A fight is already under way between candidates harboring political animosity, and they are trying to stir up old political feuds. But they will attract little attention, because the voters are trying to get away from that very thing."

Senator Small will start an active speaking campaign on May 26 that will take him to all parts of the state, he said Thursday.

Cash Prizes to Suggestions on
Tri-State Fair

In an effort to get all the people of the Tri-State Fair territory interested in the 1930 exposition and working for its betterment, cash prizes are going to be offered for the best suggestions submitted by persons not associated with it officially, on "How the Tri-State Fair Can Be Made a Better Exposition in 1930."

Four prizes of $15, $10, $7.50 and $5 will be paid those submitting the best suggestions, according to Wilbur C. Hawk, Tri-State Fair president. A committee of disinterested persons will be appointed to judge the letters.

"I know there are hundreds of persons in the territory who could offer good suggestions for improvement of the fair," Mr. Hawk said, "and there is no way we can get the benefit of their suggestions unless we can draw them out in a communication of this kind. We are giving a great deal of thought and time to making the exposition more successful and all recommendations are welcome."

Letters should be addressed to Mr. Hawk, in care of the Tri-State Fair, Amarillo. They should be brief as possible, although there are no limitations. Letters must be in by June 15, and the winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. The fair this year will be held from September 22 to 27, inclusive.

West Texas' Man

SENATOR CLINT SMALL

Senator Small's candidacy for the office of governor is growing over the state and his platform is being received with much surprise because of the sound business basis upon which it is built.

He is being conceded by all to be a formidable candidate, and is well in the running. He starts his strenuous campaigning on May 26, in which he will cover the entire state before the election in July. He will carry his platform to every section and corner of Texas, and appeal for "an adjournment of politics and the inauguration of a business administration."

Senator Small was in Amarillo the latter part of last week and he openly declared himself in believing that if he failed to reach the second primary, it would be because the people of West Texas, fearing he has no chance, fail to support him solidly.

It is admitted in political circles that he will win over any of the others if pitted against them in the second primary.

Turner Establishes a Game Preserve

S. D. Turner, state game warden, was in the north part of the Pan-handle the first of the week establishing a game preserve on the Masterson estate. This is widely known as the Sloan Kritser place and is managed by C. E. Weymouth. It is located north of the Canadian river.

Signs were erected all around the property, and at various entrances. A fine ranging from $50 to $200 will be assessed for unlawful trespassing on the property.

Mr. Turner stated that he found a large number of wild turkeys and pheasants in the newly established preserve.

He states that more than 2,000 turtles have been caught at the Palo Duro club lake within the last three weeks. He expects to catch turtles from other lakes in this vicinity if it is possible to make arrangements before it is too late in the season.

Second Casing
Being Set in the New City Well

Omar Kersey, who is in charge of the new water well being drilled for the city by the Western Water-works company, states that it is hoped the well will be finished by the latter part of the week.

Setting of the 12-inch casing was begun at about the 460-foot level yesterday, and drilling will be resumed as soon as the casing is set. A 15-inch casing was set at the 90-foot level week before last.

Indications are that the supply of water expected to be found at the depth of about 490 feet will be sufficient to care for the demand for some time to come.

A water sand 20 feet in thickness was found at 337 feet, early this week.

It's Up To West Texas, States Clint Small

"If I do not reach the second primary in the race for governor, it will be because the people of West Texas, fearing I haven't a chance, fail to support me solidly as they would otherwise," Senator Clint C. Small said Thursday while in Amarillo attending the Shrine ceremonial.

This declaration was made after a survey of conditions in other sections of the state. Since making his opening campaign speech in Amarillo three weeks ago, Senator Small has toured the Central, South and East portions of the state, including the cities of Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Beaumont, Port Arthur and others.

Finds Skepticism

"I will get more than my quota of votes in those sections," the candidate stated. "The only skepticism I have found is in West Texas, where a good many people are inclined to the belief that a West Texas candidate doesn't have a chance. The people in other sections of the state are impressed with my program, and I will get a better vote down state than I had anticipated."

"There is no opposition to a Pan-handle man in any section of the state, and no sectional feeling against West Texas. Abolishment of political strife and chaos is the universal thought in the minds of voters throughout the state. The people of the state are better united in a movement for a sane administration than ever before."

"I am greatly encouraged after my visit to other sections of the state," Senator Small continued. "and I am more strongly convinced than ever that I have a wonderful opportunity to be the next governor of Texas."

“IOLANTHE,” AN OPERA, TO BE GIVEN MONDAY

GILBERT-SULLIVAN OPERA TO BE PRESENTED BY COLLEGE CHORUSES AS COMMENCEMENT CONCERT.

Next Monday night the opera, “Iolanthe,” which the chorus, under the direction of Wallace R. Clark and Miss Pauline Brigham, has been working on since Christmas, and which would have been presented earlier if a date had been procurable, will be given in the auditorium of the administration building as a commencement concert.

All the roles of the opera are sung by students of the men’s and women’s choruses. There are eight solo parts: Iolanthe, a fairy, sung by Lonie Beth Weaver; Lord Chancellor, Iolanthe’s husband, Alfred Jameson; Strephon, an arcadian shepherd, and son of Iolanthe, William Dawes; Phyllis, ward of the Lord Chancellor and Strephon’s fiancée, Estelline Harris; Lord Tolloller, Eurith Compton; Earl Mountararat, Charles Ferguson; Queen of the Fairies, Bertha Paltenghe; Celia and Lella, two fairies of the queen’s court, Elsie Haines and Mrs. Louise Walker Brown, respectively.

The opera is to be given in concert style, in conjunction with the college orchestra. There will be no admission charge.

GOLDFISH AS PETS

Have you a jar of goldfish? They are in the vogue just now. And the reason why isn’t that the goldfish are any different from goldfish of a few years ago, but that the glass jars for holding them are different. They are more attractive than they ever were before. Therefore, everybody wishes to have goldfish now.

There was a time when all pet goldfish—they are never pet goldfish in one way, but all tame goldfish—lived in globes—just big or little or medium sized globes of glass.

But that was a long time ago, and the methods of keeping goldfish have developed largely since then. For now one has a truly lovely thing wherein to keep one’s goldfish. It may be any shape one desires, and one chooses the shape to suit one’s tastes and one’s rooms. One of the prettiest of the new holders for fishes is a bowl that swings from the ceiling or from a bracket high up on the wall. This globe looks like a big Japanese lantern, with a lacquered base of red or green or black, and a colorful tassel hanging from it, and cords at the top swinging it from its hook or bracket. This is a particularly decorative bit of furnishing.

There are also all the charming fish bowls or holders that stand on supports of metal. These are sometimes just little frameworks that are placed on the table. Sometimes they are high ones standing on the floor. The metal is finished usually in an antique bronze finish.

Sometimes the fish bowl is iridescent in color and this is particularly attractive. For it suggests all the brilliancy of a soap bubble captured and made tangible.

You know, don’t you, that there are supposedly harmless liquids that you may dissolve in the water in a fish globe to tint the water? You may have blue or green, red or yellow tinted water.

And then there are colored marbles sold especially to pile in your fish globe. These, too, are a pretty trick, as they make the fish globe more interesting in color.

The oil production of Texas during 1929 was 307,000,000 barrels, a gain of 47,731,000 barrels over the previous year.

N.S.P.A. GIVES “THE PRAIRIE” HONOR RATING

“THE PRAIRIE RECEIVES 780 OUT OF A POSSIBLE SCORE OF 1000 POINTS; STORIES WERE WELL WRITTEN.”

Scoring of the Prairie in the National Scholastic Press Association was received here recently by the editor and business manager. The Prairie was given second class honor rating, which is classified as good under the honor ratings. Out of a possible score of 1,000 points, it was given 780.

This event was the tenth All-American Critical Service conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association, with headquarters at the University of Minnesota. This is the oldest and has always been the largest of all so-called newspaper contests. N. S. P. A. has a total membership in excess of 2,000 publications, in every state in the Union, in Alaska, Hawaii, and British Honduras. Every paper earning one of the four honor ratings will receive a certificate of award which will be suitable for framing and hanging in the publications room. This year there were 644 papers entered in the contest.

Under the heading of news value and sources there is a maximum of 230 points. The Prairie was given 175 points. Out of a possible 300 points, this paper was given 260 on news writing and editing. On editorials and entertaining matter, 125 of the possible 180 points were given. Under headlines, typography, and make-up, there was a possible 290 points. The Prairie was given 220. Four consecutive issues of the Prairie were entered in this contest.

One of the comments made by the critical service was that the stories on the whole were well written and show good style of writing. Another comment was that football news was somewhat over-emphasized. He adds that there is a tendency to do this everywhere, as football is “great news.”

This is the first year that the Prairie has had membership in the N. S. P. A.

ANNUAL PLAY IS PRESENTED THURSDAY EVE

PANHANDLE PLAYERS GIVE “THE FAMOUS MRS. FAIR” AS ANNUAL PRODUCTION.

Presented Thursday evening in the auditorium of the education building, by the Panhandle Players, the special dramatic group of the W. T. speech department, as its annual production, “The Famous Mrs. Fair,” proved to be one of the best-liked plays ever put on by students of this college.

This play is a four-act comedy-drama, by James Forbes. Its plot is centered around the actions and family of a certain Mrs. Fair who, having returned from an active four years overseas during the World War, is dissatisfied with the “flatness” of home life, until happenings prove to her that there are things worse.

The role of Major Fair was played Thursday night by Dalma Fry, speech arts major. Winston O’Keefe played opposite as her husband, Jeffrey Fair. Both parts were admirably done.

The role of Angelica Brice, the “woman in the case,” was played by Wilmoth Gamble. Allan and Sylvia Fair, the son and daughter, were played by Robert Hunt and Zella Mae Walser. Allan’s pretty, modern young fiancée was Naomi Malone; and Dudley Gillette, Sylvia’s sweetheart, John Bookout. Texanna Kessler played the part of Nora, the maid. The members of Major Fair’s war unit, a comic group in the drama, were Anna Throckmorton, Frances Bourke, Mrs. Ola Gillespie, and Georgia Whittenburg.

The play was directed by Miss Mary Morgan Brown, head of the speech department. She has expressed herself as being extremely well pleased with the work of each and all of the cast. Greta Mae Cayton acted as her assistant. Eurith Compton and Winston O’Keefe were stage managers for the production.

Don’t follow in the footprints of others. It’s better to make bigger tracks of your own.

"IOLANTHE," AN OPERA, TO BE GIVEN MONDAY

GILBERT-SULLIVAN OPERA TO BE PRESENTED BY COLLEGE CHORUSES AS COMMENCEMENT CONCERT.

Next Monday night the opera, "Iolanthe," which the chorus, under the direction of Wallace R. Clark and Miss Pauline Brigham, has been working on since Christmas, and which would have been presented earlier if a date had been procurable, will be given in the auditorium of the administration building as a commencement concert.

All the roles of the opera are sung by students of the men's and women's choruses. There are eight solo parts: Iolanthe, a fairy, sung by Lonie Beth Weaver; Lord Chancellor, Iolanthe's husband, Alfred Jameson; Strephon, an arcadian shepherd, and son of Iolanthe, William Daves; Phyllis, ward of the Lord Chancellor and Strephon's fiancée, Estelle Harris; Lord Tolloller, Eurith Compton; Earl Mountararat, Charles Ferguson; Queen of the Fairies, Bertha Paltenghe; Celia and Lella, two fairies of the queen's court, Elsie Haines and Mrs. Louise Walker Brown, respectively.

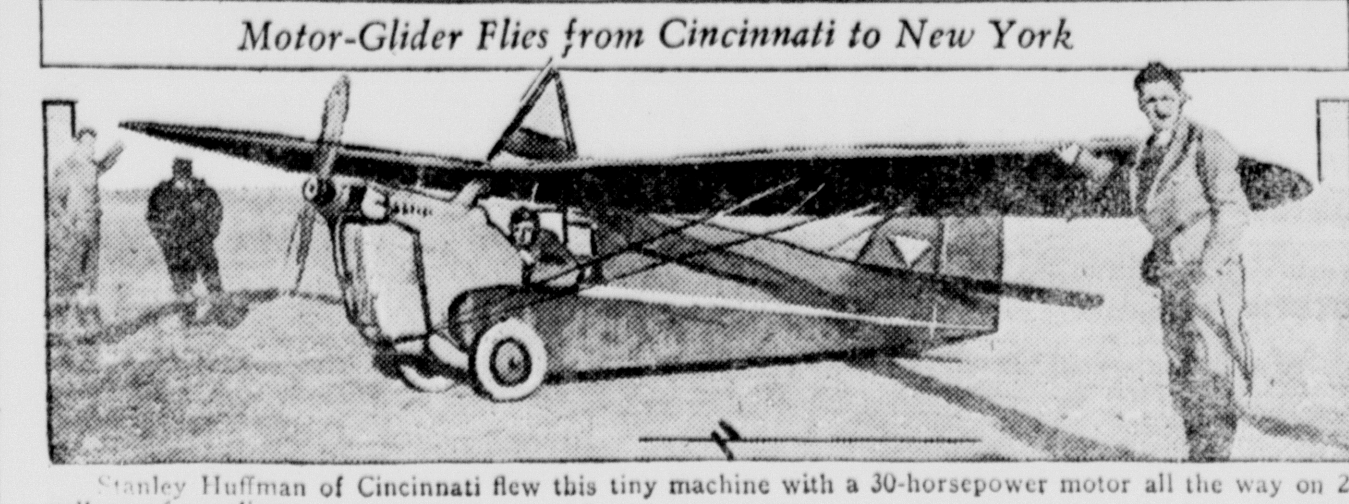

The opera is to be given in concert style, in conjunction with the college orchestra. There will be no admission charge.

GOLDFISH AS PETS

Have you a jar of goldfish? They are in the vogue just now. And the reason why isn't that the goldfish are any different from goldfish of a few years ago, but that the glass jars for holding them are different. They are more attractive than they ever were before. Therefore, everybody wishes to have goldfish now.

There was a time when all pet goldfish—they are never pet goldfish in one way, but all tame goldfish—lived in globes—just big or little or medium sized globes of glass.

But that was a long time ago, and the methods of keeping goldfish have developed largely since then. For now one has a truly lovely thing wherein to keep one's goldfish. It may be any shape one desires, and one chooses the shape to suit one's tastes and one's rooms. One of the prettiest of the new holders for fishes is a bowl that swings from the ceiling or from a bracket high up on the wall. This globe looks like a big Japanese lantern, with a lacquered base of red or green or black, and a colorful tassel hanging from it, and cords at the top swinging it from its hook or bracket. This is a particularly decorative bit of furnishing.

There are also all the charming fish bowls or holders that stand on supports of metal. These are sometimes just little frameworks that are placed on the table. Sometimes they are high ones standing on the floor. The metal is finished usually in an antique bronze finish.

Sometimes the fish bowl is iridescent in color and this is particularly attractive. For it suggests all the brilliancy of a soap bubble captured and made tangible.

You know, don't you, that there are supposedly harmless liquids that you may dissolve in the water in a fish globe to tint the water? You may have blue or green, red or yellow tinted water.

And then there are colored marbles sold especially to pile in your fish globe. These, too, are a pretty trick, as they make the fish globe more interesting in color.

The oil production of Texas during 1929 was 307,000,000 barrels, a gain of 47,731,000 barrels over the previous year.

N.S.P.A. GIVES "THE PRAIRIE" HONOR RATING

"THE PRAIRIE" RECEIVES 780 OUT OF A POSSIBLE SCORE OF 1000 POINTS; STORIES WERE WELL WRITTEN.

Scoring of the Prairie in the National Scholastic Press Association was received here recently by the editor and business manager. The Prairie was given second class honor rating, which is classified as good under the honor ratings. Out of a possible score of 1,000 points, it was given 780.

This event was the tenth All-American Critical Service conducted by the National Scholastic Press Association, with headquarters at the University of Minnesota. This is the oldest and has always been the largest of all so-called newspaper contests. N. S. P. A. has a total membership in excess of 2,000 publications, in every state in the Union, in Alaska, Hawaii, and British Honduras. Every paper earning one of the four honor ratings will receive a certificate of award which will be suitable for framing and hanging in the publications room. This year there were 644 papers entered in the contest.

Under the heading of news value and sources there is a maximum of 230 points. The Prairie was given 175 points. Out of a possible 300 points, this paper was given 260 on news writing and editing. On editorials and entertaining matter, 125 of the possible 180 points were given. Under headlines, typography, and make-up, there was a possible 290 points. The Prairie was given 220. Four consecutive issues of the Prairie were entered in this contest.

One of the comments made by the critical service was that the stories on the whole were well written and show good style of writing. Another comment was that football news was somewhat over-emphasized. He adds that there is a tendency to do this everywhere, as football is "great news."

This is the first year that the Prairie has had membership in the N. S. P. A.

ANNUAL PLAY IS PRESENTED THURSDAY EVE

PANHANDLE PLAYERS GIVE "THE FAMOUS MRS. FAIR" AS ANNUAL PRODUCTION.

Presented Thursday evening in the auditorium of the education building, by the Panhandle Players, the special dramatic group of the W. T. speech department, as its annual production, "The Famous Mrs. Fair," proved to be one of the best-liked plays ever put on by students of this college.

This play is a four-act comedy-drama, by James Forbes. Its plot is centered around the actions and family of a certain Mrs. Fair who, having returned from an active four years overseas during the World War, is dissatisfied with the "flatness" of home life, until happenings prove to her that there are things worse.

The role of Major Fair was played Thursday night by Dalma Fry, speech arts major. Winston O'Keefe played opposite as her husband, Jeffrey Fair. Both parts were admirably done.

The role of Angelica Brice, the "woman in the case," was played by Wilmoth Gamble. Allan and Sylvia Fair, the son and daughter, were played by Robert Hunt and Zella Mae Walser. Allan's pretty, modern young fiancée was Naomi Malone; and Dudley Gillette, Sylvia's sweetheart, John Bookout. Texanna Kessler played the part of Nora, the maid. The members of Major Fair's war unit, a comic group in the drama, were Anna Throckmorton, Frances Bourke, Mrs. Ola Gillespie, and Georgia Whittenburg.

The play was directed by Miss Mary Morgan Brown, head of the speech department. She has expressed herself as being extremely well pleased with the work of each and all of the cast. Greta Mae Cayton acted as her assistant. Eurith Compton and Winston O'Keefe were stage managers for the production.

Don't follow in the footsteps of others. It's better to make bigger tracks of your own.

WHY OUTLAW WEST TEXAS?

Is it a crime to live in West Texas?

Is not West Texas as much a part of Texas, as is East Texas, or Central Texas, or South Texas, or any other part or portion of Texas that might be conceived?

Should an able man from West Texas be looked upon as an outlaw and outcast when it comes to politics?

The Fort Bend Reporter looks upon West Texas and West Texans with suspicion. It is all right for West Texas to pay pur taxes toward the upkeep of the state government. It is fine that West Texans be good citizens of the state, and support the politicians running from other sections, but it is all wrong, according to the Fort Bend Reporter, for a West Texan to offer for a state office. Here is the way this newspaper views the candidacy of Senator Clint Small:

"The State's most popular office now has 14 aspirants. Senator Clint C. Small of Wellington recently became the thirteenth entry. And it would appear that he is to be a formidable candidate for governor.

"It is to be regretted that his race will inevitably carry with it the issue of sectionalism. He is known as the West Texas candidate, and the largest part of his support will come from that fast-developing and section-conscious part of the state. Sectionalism has been a detrimental factor in politics and government since the days of the Texas Republic. However, the West Texans probably could not have selected a more able man to carry their colors."

In the first place, who said anything about sectionalism?

And who is running on the platform of sectionalism?

Not Clint Small.

Clint Small is not a sectional candidate. He states very sincerely that sectional politics is what is wrong with Texas today. He stands for a recess of politics, and with all citizens making an honest effort to build Texas as a whole, rather than in sections, as some folks not living in West Texas would do.

It is absolutely unfair and unjust to condemn Clint Small because he lives in West Texas, any more than it is to condemn Lynch Davidson because he lives in South Texas, or Barry Miller because he lives in North Texas, or Dan Moody because he lives in Central Texas.

Let's forget about sectionalism, and vote for the best man for governor, a man who will do the best toward developing the resources of Texas; a man who will not penalize any section, or any industry, or any business in Texas, but will strive to make them all succeed. That man is Clint Small.

Bob Shuler, a Methodist preacher in Los Angeles, is in jail, found guilty of contempt of the supreme court of that state. The general conference being held in Dallas sent a message of sympathy to Shuler. A bishop, charged with gambling on the stock market, was given a coat of whitewash. Just where will the line be drawn as to this law violation? If a man is a preacher or a bishop, is he any more licensed to ignore the laws of the land than if he were a ditch-digger? The laymen of the church do not sanction any steps made by the preachers who fail to condemn in one of their number the thing which they so heartily disapprove of among the laymen. There has been considerable discussion as to the decline of the influence of the church. All of which is not helped when the governing body refuses to condemn the misdoing of those among its number.

The supreme court has rendered a wise decision in allowing Tom Love's name on the primary ballot. This virtually means the end of Tom. Matter of fact, he did not want on the ticket. He hoped that he would be refused, so as to pose as a martyr, and have a greater appeal among those who supported Hoover in the last general election. With the main issue gone, so far as Tom is concerned, he is nothing more than one of the fourteen candidates running for governor. He has nothing but a dead issue. He will continue to rave about Al Smith and Raskob, but both are dead so far as Texas is concerned. Texas has plenty of live issues and problems confronting the state, so why dig up issues out of the political cemetery of last year?

President Hoover has made statements which indicate that he realizes the importance of law enforcement, and will strive to see that prohibition laws are made effective. Had President Coolidge taken some interest in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, this country would not have seen the disgraceful condition as we have today, and the country would have been nearer the goal of absolute prohibition.

POETRY AND LIFE

The announcement that John Masfield has been appointed Poet Laureate of England, succeeding the late Robert Bridges, revives interest in poetry as a means of expression, as well as in the ancient office of Poet Laureate to the king of England.

The earlier Poets Laureate were a kind of glorified royal minstrels, who were supposed to sound the praises of the king on every possible occasion. Naturally, the necessity for being a sort of lyrical "yes-man" did not attract the poets of the highest genius, and there have been few holders of that title whose names are remembered. But when Queen Victoria appointed Alfred Tennyson, a new style was set. Tennyson refused to write poetry to order. He did compose some verses in commemoration of events in the life of royalty, but they rank among his poorest work. But Tennyson was the highest poet of his day, one of the greatest who ever wrote in the English language, and he gave to the title of Poet Laureate a new dignity.

The successor to Tennyson, Robert Bridges, was regarded in literary circles as a first-rate poet, but his work has never had the popular appeal that Tennyson's had. Few of his poems are known at all in America. For that matter, few of John Masfield's poems are known on this side of the water. The only living

English poet whose work has had American popularity comparable with Tennyson's is Rudyard Kipling, and Kipling is now an old man and probably would not have accepted the post of Laureate had it been offered him. And that was out of the question, since the king's appointment was made on the recommendation of the prime minister, and the present prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is at odds with his predecessor, Stanley Baldwin, who happens to be Kipling's brother-in-law.

John Masfield is a different sort of poet. English to the core, he has expressed in his poems a deep sympathy with and understanding of the working classes and the "under dog" generally. His youth was spent in poverty, one almost says as a tramp. He served before the mast as a sailor—found himself stranded in New York, and earned his bed and board by acting as a porter for a friendly saloon-keeper. Yet his poem, "Reynard the Fox," brought instant approval of the English aristocracy. He now lives at Oxford, in the shadow of the historic university, and runs a little theater, where he produces original plays.

In another respect John Masfield differs from the traditional poet; he is a teetotaler. "Inspiration must come from a man's own soul and not from alcohol," he says. He is now 55 years old, with every expectation of 20 years more of productive life, during which everything he writes will be eagerly read all over the world.

THE SUPREME COURT

There are two equally honest points of view held by men of differing convictions, in the matter of the qualifications of a justice of the supreme court of the United States. One view is that no man should be appointed to the supreme bench whose views on social and economic questions do not conform to those currently held by the group which happens to be in control of the United States senate at the time. The answer to this, the opposing view, is that men of character and integrity do not permit their personal opinions to deter them from interpreting the Constitution and the laws passed thereunder in the light of the best traditions of the law and the bench.

Men have been nominated for the supreme court in our time, and have been confirmed by the senate, whose known social and economic views were totally at variance with those held by the majority of the senate at that time. The case of Justice Brandeis is in point. But there was more to the rejection of Judge John J. Parker by the senate than that he does not see some things eye to eye with the majority of the senators. The impression was created by Judge Parker's opponents that he was too eager for the office, that too many purely partisan considerations entered into his nomination by the president. Those considerations of themselves might not have prevented his nomination, however. Beyond them was the desire of the insurgent group in the senate to give President Hoover a slap in the face. That is part of another chapter in the political history of the United States which, when written, will deal with the effort of the senate to control the entire government.

President Hoover's nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia in place of Judge Parker seems to have been his personal selection, uninfluenced by political or territorial selections. Of Mr. Roberts' qualifications as a great lawyer there are no two opinions.

The Way of Life

WORRYING DOESN'T PAY

On his way back to a college reunion, one of my friends stopped off in the little town where he had spent his boyhood.

"How is business?" he asked a local merchant.

"Awful bad," was the reply. "And what's more, I don't like the outlook."

"Why not?"

"Well, there's elements in the situation that might develop a lot of trouble. At least that's the way it looks to me."

My friend lighted a cigar and leaned over the counter.

"George," he said, familiarly, "those are almost exactly the same words I used to hear from the storekeepers when I was a kid here 25 years ago. I've been a subscriber to the local paper ever since I left, and most of those old storekeepers have died. I've taken special notice of the size of their estates. How much money do you think they left? Between a hundred thousand and two hundred thousand each. And here's the funny thing—every penny was made out of businesses which were always bad and always on the verge of getting ever so much worse."

I suppose that if gravestones told the real truth, nine out of ten of them would bear a line to this effect: "This man's life was shortened several years by the fear of bad developments, most of which never occurred."

Even very wise men, as their years have increased, have suffered from the evil habit of fearing the worst. The Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, who died 200 years ago in Boston, was the most eminent graduate of Harvard and virtually the founder of Yale. He had courage, and wonderful mind.

Yet in his old age he viewed the future disconsolately. He concluded that God had brought the Pilgrims across the ocean to "a New England desert" for a very special purpose, but that this purpose had obviously been accomplished, and that the

The successor to Tennyson, Robert Bridges, was regarded in literary circles as a first-rate poet, but his work has never had the popular appeal that Tennyson's had. Few of his poems are known at all in America. For that matter, few of John Masfield's poems are known on this side of the water. The only living

English poet whose work has had American popularity comparable with Tennyson's is Rudyard Kipling, and Kipling is now an old man and probably would not have accepted the post of Laureate had it been offered him. And that was out of the question, since the king's appointment was made on the recommendation of the prime minister, and the present prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, is at odds with his predecessor, Stanley Baldwin, who happens to be Kipling's brother-in-law.

John Masfield is a different sort of poet. English to the core, he has expressed in his poems a deep sympathy with and understanding of the working classes and the "under dog" generally. His youth was spent in poverty, one almost says as a tramp. He served before the mast as a sailor—found himself stranded in New York, and earned his bed and board by acting as a porter for a friendly saloon-keeper. Yet his poem, "Reynard the Fox," brought instant approval of the English aristocracy. He now lives at Oxford, in the shadow of the historic university, and runs a little theater, where he produces original plays.

In another respect John Masfield differs from the traditional poet; he is a teetotaler. "Inspiration must come from a man's own soul and not from alcohol," he says. He is now 55 years old, with every expectation of 20 years more of productive life, during which everything he writes will be eagerly read all over the world.

THE SUPREME COURT

There are two equally honest points of view held by men of differing convictions, in the matter of the qualifications of a justice of the supreme court of the United States. One view is that no man should be appointed to the supreme bench whose views on social and economic questions do not conform to those currently held by the group which happens to be in control of the United States senate at the time. The answer to this, the opposing view, is that men of character and integrity do not permit their personal opinions to deter them from interpreting the Constitution and the laws passed thereunder in the light of the best traditions of the law and the bench.

Men have been nominated for the supreme court in our time, and have been confirmed by the senate, whose known social and economic views were totally at variance with those held by the majority of the senate at that time. The case of Justice Brandeis is in point. But there was more to the rejection of Judge John J. Parker by the senate than that he does not see some things eye to eye with the majority of the senators. The impression was created by Judge Parker's opponents that he was too eager for the office, that too many purely partisan considerations entered into his nomination by the president. Those considerations of themselves might not have prevented his nomination, however. Beyond that was the desire of the insurgent group in the senate to give President Hoover a slap in the face. That is part of another chapter in the political history of the United States which, when written, will deal with the effort of the senate to control the entire government.

President Hoover's nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia in place of Judge Parker seems to have been his personal selection, uninfluenced by political or territorial selections. Of Mr. Roberts' qualifications as a great lawyer there are no two opinions.

The Way of Life

WORRYING DOESN'T PAY

On his way back to a college reunion, one of my friends stopped off in the little town where he had spent his boyhood.

"How is business?" he asked a local merchant.

"Awful bad," was the reply. "And what's more, I don't like the outlook."

"Why not?"

"Well, there's elements in the situation that might develop a lot of trouble. At least that's the way it looks to me."

My friend lighted a cigar and leaned over the counter.

"George," he said, familiarly, "those are almost exactly the same words I used to hear from the storekeepers when I was a kid here 25 years ago. I've been a subscriber to the local paper ever since I left, and most of those old storekeepers have died. I've taken special notice of the size of their estates. How much money do you think they left?"

Between a hundred thousand and two hundred thousand each. And here's the funny thing—every penny was made out of businesses which were always bad and always on the verge of getting ever so much worse."

I suppose that if gravestones told the real truth, nine out of ten of them would bear a line to this effect: "This man's life was shortened several years by the fear of bad developments, most of which never occurred."

Even very wise men, as their years have increased, have suffered from the evil habit of fearing the worst. The Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, who died 200 years ago in Boston, was the most eminent graduate of Harvard and virtually the founder of Yale. He had courage, and wonderful mind.

Yet in his old age he viewed the future disconsolately. He concluded that God had brought the Pilgrims across the ocean to "a New England desert" for a very special purpose, but that this purpose had obviously been accomplished, and that the

PORK CHOPS

A good way to cook pork chops this time of the year is to put them in a casserole with a quantity of cut-up apples. First lay a chop in the casserole with sliced apples, add a scant sprinkling of salt and a dash of pepper, with the merest suspicion of nutmeg or mace. Then add another chop and then more apples. The casserole should not be too full, and it should be kept covered throughout the cooking.

Another good way to cook pork chops in the casserole is to butter the casserole and then line it with a good layer of cooked rice. Lay in the desired number of chops, pour over them cooked tomatoes to which have been added a little chopped green pepper and onions if desired. Then add more cooked rice. Moisten well and cook in a casserole. Cook for an hour or until the chops when raised from the rice appear to be thoroughly done. About five minutes before taking from the oven remove cover and add a little butter to the top of the rice.

To prepare pork chops with bread crumbs, use about a cupful of bread crumbs for six chops. Use with this a piece of salt pork the size of an egg or two slices of bacon. Put the bread and the pork or bacon thru the meat grinder with half a small onion. Season with salt and pepper and moisten with hot water and then lay it over the chops which have been placed in a dripping pan. Cook in the oven, adding more water as needed. They should cook about an hour in a moderate oven.

Most of us when we say cake mean layer cake. One of the things that the American traveler in Europe finds disappointing is the lack of this American delicacy. The French, by cake, usually mean small very richly frosted cake; the English mean rather dry loaf cake; and some Americans go from tea shop to tea patisserie looking for a piece of luscious chocolate or coconut cake.

Foreign visitors to this country sometimes think our cake is indigestible and over rich. However even a rich chocolate layer cake is a perfectly wholesome dessert if it is well made. Furthermore it should be eaten alone and not as an adjunct of a rich ice cream. There seems to be a general objection to fresh baked things, and yet food specialists have pointed out that fresh cake, if it is thoroughly masticated, is more easily digested than cake a couple of days old. The butter, once it has been cooked, is better fresh than after it has stood and this makes fresh cake more easily digested.

Of course children must be taught to masticate any fresh baked bread or cake very thoroughly. If they do this it will not hurt them unless it is too rich or they have very delicate digestions.

ROYALTY

Fifteen years ago the news that the kaiser's grandson was working in Henry Ford's assembly plant in Buenos Aires, Argentina, for $3 a day, would have furnished a topic for Sunday pages in the big newspapers. Now the fact that the son of the crown prince has had to go to work under the name of "Doctor Ferdinand" is hardly a theme for a passing paragraph.

Some of the results of the Great War may be debatable, but that it finally exploded the old idea of royalty ruling by divine mandate is all to the good.

CO-OPERATION

The purpose of the federal farm board is to convert farming from a hit-or-miss mode of living, into a business. It can share in the nation's general prosperity only by adopting business methods. In the process, many farmers will have to give up farming and go into something else. That may sound harsh, but it is the plain logic of the trend of events.

William M. Jardine, former secretary of agriculture and himself a successful practical farmer, declares there are too many farms and farmers. In any sound business, producers regulate their output to the demand for their products. Farmers have not done that because they have never worked together.

The farm board program is the greatest experiment in co-operation ever attempted in the world. Its success will depend upon the intelligence and vision of the men who run it.

DAWES

They are talking about Charles G. Dawes for mayor of Chicago. The election will be in April, 1931. If the former vice-president, present ambassador to Great Britain, can be nominated, he probably can be elected. If he is elected, Chicago will get the most complete cleaning up it has ever had. The trouble will be to get the nominally Republican but actually bi-partisan machine which controls Chicago politics to let him be nominated. The ostensible basis of the opposition will be that he is not a resident of Chicago, but of the adjoining city of Evanston.

COLD

The other day I saw a covered truck on Sixth avenue, New York, with the name of an ice cream maker on the side and the words "Temperature 105 degrees below zero." Freezing ice cream so solid that it will keep for weeks if stored at any temperature below 32 degrees is only one of the commercial applications of the new freezing processes in which both liquid air and solid carbon dioxide are used.

Fish, meats, fruits, and vegetables frozen so quickly and thoroughly that their juices do not form ice-crystals to rupture the fibers, are now on the market in the larger cities. They taste, when thawed, just like fresh food. Chicago packers are preparing to put out frozen meats in the form of single steaks, chops, roasts, each sealed in cellulose and shipped in containers designed to keep them frozen until delivered to the consumer.

If this method develops as it now promises, the world center of the meat industry may shift from the United States to Australia, Argentina, or South Africa, where land and labor are cheap and cattle and can be raised at small cost.

Inkhorn Precursor of Modern Fountain Pen

The Inkhorn was one of the earliest ink containers in this country. Carried at the belt, this horn of plenty, taken from the head of some animal, was invariably resorted to by the attorney whenever and wherever business met him upon the highways. Another old ink case worn at the belt and including the short quill, was made of pressed paper, darkened with gum and oil to the semblance of leather and tooled with designs of tooth-mark and parallel lines. Its height was seven inches and it was made in three parts—the bottom containing the tiny glass bottle measuring about two inches high and one across and carrying a protecting cork, the second part slipping down firmly to cover the bottle, while the third part or top, covered the quill. After many years of use and later oblivion this old ink and quill case comes to light as hard as metal and, only where it rubbed against the wearers' belt does it betray the fact that it is of ancient, rude paper, and not of well-tanned hide.—Marion Nicholl Rawson, in the Boston Transcript.

French Nation Fosters Time-Keeping Industry

The making of time-keeping instruments is one of the oldest and most highly developed of French industries. When the teaching of apprentices in the shops of watchmakers became inadequate for the development of the trade, professional schools were established, fostered by the state and supported by the industry. In addition, a municipal school of watchmaking was founded at Paris, a nationalized school at Lyons and a private school at Breux. Each year 100 to 125 watchmakers graduate from these institutions.

The industry has not yet been affected to any extent by consolidation. Many of the factories are little more than workshops, where from 10 to 30 skilled workmen with hand tools and a few simple machines turn out carefully wrought products. It is thought that the small size of French establishments has the advantage of stimulating the worker's creative ability.—New York Times.

Education

Five evidences of an education as enumerated by Nicholas Murray Butler are as follows: "First among the evidences of an education I name correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue. As a second evidence I name those refined and gentle manners which are the expression of fixed habits of thought and action. As a third evidence I name the power and habit of reflection. . . . As a fourth evidence of an education I name the power of growth. There is a type of mind which when trained to a certain point crystallizes, as it were, and refuses to move onward. This type of mind fails to give one the essential evidences of an education. As a fifth evidence of an education I name efficiency, the power to do."

Hard and Soft Solders

Soldering operations are classified, according to the composition of the alloy used, as either soft soldering or hard soldering. Solder of low melting points, composed mainly of lead and tin in varying amounts, are known as soft solders, while those of high melting points, composed of varying amounts of copper, brass, zinc, silver and gold are known as hard solders. The soft solder commonly used is made up of half lead and half tin, and melts at a temperature of 370 degrees Fahrenheit. The more lead there is in the alloy the higher its melting point, and an alloy composed of one part tin and two parts lead melts at 441 degrees Fahrenheit.

Tough on Fat Men

In New York the seating accommodations are limited to 20 inches in the "L" and 18 inches in the subway. This calls to mind the late Phillips Brooks, who was said to be the polliest man in Boston because when he gave up his seat in the street car two women could sit down, and Mr. Taft, who was disappointed once when he found that the two seats he had reserved for comfort at a baseball game were on different sides of the aisle.—Boston Globe.

Loberster's Legal Status

To have legal status in Maine the lobster taken from its coast waters must measure approximately ten and a half inches from the tip of its nose to the end of its middle tail flipper. Such a measure up to 13 inches are common, and these weigh about two and three-quarters pounds. In winter the lobstermen are paid anywhere from 40 to 50 cents a pound for their catches.

Nothing to Play With

Opportunity goes only so far. We should not assume that the prosperity built here by our fathers is perpetual. The economic history of modern civilization is strewn with the ruins of once mighty edifices of business power.—American Magazine.

Trace Old Superstition to Historic Incident

Quite a few common sayings, it has been found, come down from old English ballads, while some are founded on some historical incident. The most famous of the latter perhaps is the old Scottish superstition, "Bad luck to kill spiders."

Those who have read the various stories of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, will recall the one where it is told of the Scottish baron who, awakening one morning disheartened over his attempts to conquer the English and gain the throne of Scotland, saw a spider trying to fasten its web across the rafters of the building.

Twice the spider tried and failed and thereupon Bruce resolved that if its third attempt should be successful, he, too, would try again to defeat the English and gain the Scottish throne.

Bruce, watching the spider, saw it steeling itself for a supreme effort, the spider sprang, and succeeded in fastening its web on the rafter, and, full of courage, Bruce arose to try once again, and like the spider, succeeded. Hence, the superstition, "Bad luck to kill a spider."

Chinese Capital Loses Noted 'Thieves' Market'

The famous "thieves' market" of China's ancient capital is formally abolished in a decree issued by Gen. Chang Yin-wu, mayor of Peking. The decree also prohibits the fairs which have been held for centuries there at dawn and after nightfall. The decree quotes a Chinese classical writer as saying that the middle of the day is the time for people to buy and sell. The "thieves' market" has been one of the most picturesque features of Peking life for generations. To an appointed place hundreds of dealers have brought every conceivable sort of object at six o'clock in the morning, or earlier, and Chinese and foreign residents in search of bargains have been the patrons. It has been popularly supposed that a large number of the articles displayed were stolen, which accounted for their surprising cheapness.

Death-Dealing Habits

The handshake, universal gesture of friendship, is the distributor of disease and death. It has been definitely established that typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diphtheria and cholera are among the diseases which may be carried through the handshake. Experiments have shown that the seventh person removed from the original germ bearer may be infected. The danger would be greatly lessened were it not for the common habit of putting the fingers in the mouth. A group of 40 students and teachers in a library were observed during a period of a half hour. Only one person failed to carry his hand to his mouth. Thirteen members of the group were seen to moisten their fingers before turning the leaves of their books, a particularly dangerous habit.

Technological Education

The beginning of technological education may be traced back to ancient times, as is evidenced by the construction of the pyramids of Egypt, the aqueducts, military roads and fortifications of the ancient Romans. During the Middle Ages there was a general lack of interest in learning of all kinds. It was principally conducted by the monks and similar religious organizations, whose interest was more in the arts than in the sciences. Technological schools were founded in the eighteenth century. In the United States the work of Dr. Jacob Bigelow did much to further interest in technological studies. He published his "Elements of Technology" in 1829.

Valuable Outlet

In the critical years of adolescence, when the emotional nature of the young person is in evidence, music is the most valuable outlet for the surplusage of emotion—a veritable safety valve, in fact; not alone the mere passive hearing of music, but more than this, the serious study of music in its executive sense, will do more to hold to the track a youngster tingling with the higgly-piggly emotion of that period than anything else. Parents who neglect the musical education of their children are ignoring one of the most valuable factors in character advancement.—Exchange.

Concerning Earth's Orbit

The naval observatory says it has been proved, first by Sir Isaac Newton, that a spherical body attracted gravitationally only by another spherical body will move in a circle, ellipse, parabola or hyperbola, but this proof is a matter of higher mathematics. The orbits of the planets are not perfect ellipses, because the elliptical motion of each of them that would result from the attraction of the sun alone is disturbed by the attraction of the other planets.

High Position and Life Sacrificed for Beard

There is at least one record of a man who gave his life for his beard; or died in consequence of the fear of losing it. The tale is attested in history. It relates to Guillaume Duprat, bishop of Clermont, sufficiently eminent to sit in the council of Trent and who is celebrated in memory connected with the building of the College of Jesuits at Paris. On one Easter morning as he was about to enter his cathedral he was faced by three members of his chapter, bearing among them a razor, a pair of scissors, a basin of warm water, a cake of soap and a towel. It was the end of Duprat; or the beginning of the end.

Duprat's beard was patriarchal. It was not approved by the prevailing sentiment of the church at the time; and a resolution had been adopted calling upon him to remove it. He had not removed it. Thus he knew well what portended when these ominous signs confronted him on the cathedral porch. He turned and fled—with his beard. He found asylum or refuge in his castle at Beauregard. It was a cul de sac. He could not go forth with safety to his beard. He bent beneath his distress, sickened and died—a broken heart, says tradition, which is always as good as history, and frequently much better.—Boston Herald.

British Gave Up Rights on Mississippi River

The British government has maintained that treaties concluded by it with the United States before the War of 1812 were terminated by that war. While the United States has taken the position that the War of 1812 did not necessarily terminate these treaties, there would appear to be no doubt that the provision of article VIII of the treaty of Ghent, concluded on December 24, 1814, endeavored to have a provision inserted in that treaty which would secure for British subjects the right to navigate the Mississippi, but the American negotiators being unwilling to yield to that proposal. In a note dated October 30, 1815, from the British foreign office to the American minister at London, published in American State Papers, Volume IV, page 354, and following, the right of British subjects to the free navigation of the Mississippi is admitted to be abandoned.

Scissors Long in Use

It was formerly believed that scissors were invented in Venice in the sixteenth century, but records show that implements similar to our modern scissors were in use very much earlier than this period. In the remains of Pompeii shears were found made of iron and steel as well as bronze. Scissors were also in use in various oriental countries from a very early period. It is stated that those manufactured in Europe were copied from the Persians. The original scissors were very much ornamented and frequently in the form of a bird, the blade forming the beak.

Wailing Wall Long Moslem

Jerusalem's wailing wall is not a remnant of the temple of Solomon and contains no remnants of the temple of Solomon, writes Vincent Sheehan in the magazine Asia. There are no remnants of the temple of Solomon anywhere. The wall does contain three courses of masonry in its lower levels which are undoubtedly remnants of the Greco-Roman temple built by Herod the Great to conciliate the Jewish nation, which did not recognize him as its king. The greater part of the wall is Moslem and forms part of the wall of the Ha es Sharif. It has been Moslem property for 1,300 years.

"Humor" in Music

Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians says of the word "Humoresque" (Humoresque): "A title adopted by Schumann for his Op. 20 and Op. 88, No. 2, the former for piano solo, the latter for piano, violin and violin-cello. Heller and Grell have also used the term for pianoforte pieces Op. 64 and Op. 9 and 16, respectively. There is nothing particularly 'humorous' in any of these, and the term 'capriccio' might equally well be applied to them. Rubinstein also entitled his 'Don Quixote' 'Humoresque,' but the 'humor' is there of a more obvious and bolsterous kind."

Substances in Rain Water

The composition of rain water varies. Since rain is considered water vapor it would be chemically pure if it did not gather foreign substance from the atmosphere as it falls to the earth. Rain water washes down out of the air, dust, soot, pollen, spores of fungi and similar material. It contains a percentage of dissolved oxygen, nitrogen, ammonia and carbonic acid gas. In falling through the impure atmosphere of cities it sometimes shows traces of nitric acid, sulphuric acid and other compounds.

Coué's Principle

Emile Coué (born 1857, died 1926) was a French psychotherapist. Coué's system of therapeutics deals principally with the power of imagination as opposed to that of the will. He claimed that by means of auto-suggestion ideas which tend to cause illness and disease may be eliminated from the will. Coué invariably stated that he was primarily a healer, but one who taught others to heal themselves. His famous formula was "Every day in every way I am becoming better and better."

Ram Literally Butted Himself to Bitter End

A farmer named Darby had a ram. This ram could have taken the blue ribbon in the butter class at any fair. He would butt anything in sight, especially if it was moving.

Darby was a patient man but after the ram had butted everything on the farm, including Darby himself, he vowed vengeance. So one morning when he and his family were going to be gone for the day he suspended a heavy post-maul by a rope from a tree limb and turned the ram loose. The ram, seeing the mail swinging, made a rush for it. He hit it a blow that sent it swinging more. The mail, on the return trip, hit him on the head but he didn't mind it; in fact it merely made him call out his reserve powers.

Darby and his family grew tired of watching the duel between the ram and the mail, so they went to town. Toward evening they returned and the first thing they did was to visit the dueling ground. They saw the mail swinging—and they wondered what had become of the ram.

Then on going closer they found that the ram had actually worn himself out butting the mail. All that was left of him was a piece of his tail about as long as your thumb.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Canadian Writer Says Good Word for "Bunny"

Rabbits have been much in the news of late. A motorist has put on record the fact that he had to travel at thirty-four miles an hour to keep up with a rabbit that was running in front of his car. Then, Russia decided to raise rabbits by the million for food. But the rabbit, in spite of its smallness and timidity, has had a way of making a noise in the world. It is a curse to gardeners and farmers even in this country, and in Australia it quickly became a national menace. In this connection a good story is told of a newcomer to the island continent—a Scot—who asked an Australian if there were many Scots in Australia. "Yes," was the immediate reply, "but our real plague is the rabbit!" But—even though the Australian won't believe it—rabbits are luckbringers. Say "White Rabbit" three times first thing on the first day of each month, and you're in for four weeks of good fortune! So, at least, runs the story.—Montreal Family Herald.

Beauty in Great Bridge

There is beauty of a different and stupendous kind in the bridges that connect Manhattan island with Brooklyn or the mainland. Your first feeling at these bridges is always one of admiration, even awe, for modern engineering. . . . To stand on the East river docks and see the gigantic, wirespan, airy boulevard of the Brooklyn bridge so leaping up into space and descend in a curve of marvelous grace into the granite gorges of lower Manhattan is to experience a sensation no other city on earth can offer you. . . . It would have been from the footpath of this bridge, too, that Wordsworth would have written his sonnet to Manhattan—we wonder in what spirit of solemn awe?—Walter Prichard Eaton, in "Green Trails and Upland Pastures."

Temperature and Earth

Only a few feet of earth on the very surface is affected by the daily range of temperature. There is then a larger layer upon which neither the surface temperature nor the temperature of the inside of the earth has any effect. Then comes the layer where the temperature of the earth increases one degree for every 50 to 75 feet one goes into the interior of the earth. The cold water comes from the layer which is unaffected by temperatures from within the earth or on the surface of the earth. In some places we have thermo springs where the water comes from a depth below this in the region which is influenced by the heat from within the earth.

East Indian Superstition

In the month of May the pipal tree, venerated in India, is said to be in its most benevolent mood; so in Bengal at that season groups of young maidens, all dressed in yellow robes, assemble each morning to pay homage to it. If one of them number happens to become engaged to be married at that time, she is honored with a crown of pipal leaves by her companions, for whom in return she cooks food; and those who partake of that food will also, it is believed, meet with a similar happy fate.

Rare Chinese Pottery

Peachblow ware is the most valuable of Chinese pottery. It belongs to the Chinese potteries which are transmutation glazes embracing a type of flame color. These glazes differ from red to a delicate pink, which is peachblow. Peachblow products have realized prize amounts in salesrooms, and many of these pieces are exhibited in museums. They are no longer made. Originally peachblow was made in King-te-Chin and was considered as a perfect example of potter's art.

North Carolina once prided itself on having a first-class volcano in its midst. It was Bald mountain. Things were pretty bad with Bald mountain in those days. It was acting up in the spring of 1874. Inkhorn Precursor of Modern Fountain Pen

The Inkhorn was one of the earliest ink containers in this country. Carried at the belt, this horn of plenty, taken from the head of some animal, was invariably resorted to by the attorney whenever and wherever business met him upon the highways. Another old ink case worn at the belt and including the short quill, was made of pressed paper, darkened with gum and oil to the semblance of leather and tooled with designs of tooth-mark and parallel lines. Its height was seven inches and it was made in three parts—the bottom containing the tiny glass bottle measuring about two inches high and one across and carrying a protecting cork, the second part slipping down firmly to cover the bottle, while the third part or top, covered the quill. After many years of use and later oblivion this old ink and quill case comes to light as hard as metal and, only where it rubbed against the wearers' belt does it betray the fact that it is of ancient, rude paper, and not of well-tanned hide.—Marion Nichol Rawson, in the Boston Transcript.

French Nation Fosters Time-Keeping Industry

The making of time-keeping instruments is one of the oldest and most highly developed of French industries. When the teaching of apprentices in the shops of watchmakers became inadequate for the development of the trade, professional schools were established, fostered by the state and supported by the industry. In addition, a municipal school of watchmaking was founded at Paris, a nationalized school at Lyons and a private school at Dreux. Each year 100 to 125 watchmakers graduate from these institutions.

The industry has not yet been affected to any extent by consolidation. Many of the factories are little more than workshops, where from 10 to 30 skilled workmen with hand tools and a few simple machines turn out carefully wrought products. It is thought that the small size of French establishments has the advantage of stimulating the worker's creative ability.—New York Times.

Education

Five evidences of an education as enumerated by Nicholas Murray Butler are as follows: "First among the evidences of an education I name correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue. As a second evidence I name those refined and gentle manners which are the expression of fixed habits of thought and action. As a third evidence I name the power and habit of reflection. . . . As a fourth evidence of an education I name the power of growth. There is a type of mind which when trained to a certain point crystallizes, as it were, and refuses to move onward. This type of mind fails to give one the essential evidences of an education. As a fifth evidence of an education I name efficiency, the power to do."

Hard and Soft Solders

Soldering operations are classified, according to the composition of the alloy used, as either soft soldering or hard soldering. Solder of low melting points, composed mainly of lead and tin in varying amounts, are known as soft solders, while those of high melting points, composed of varying amounts of copper, brass, zinc, silver and gold are known as hard solders. The soft solder commonly used is made up of half lead and half tin, and melts at a temperature of 370 degrees Fahrenheit. The more lead there is in the alloy the higher its melting point, and an alloy composed of one part tin and two parts lead melts at 441 degrees Fahrenheit.

Tough on Fat Men

In New York the seating accommodations are limited to 20 inches in the "L" and 18 inches in the subway. This calls to mind the late Phillips Brooks, who was said to be the politest man in Boston because when he gave up his seat in the street car two women could sit down, and Mr. Taft, who was disappointed once when he found that the two seats he had reserved for comfort at a baseball game were on different sides of the aisle.—Boston Globe.

Lobster's Legal Status

To have legal status in Maine the lobster taken from its coast waters must measure approximately ten and a half inches from the tip of its nose to the end of its middle tail flipper. Such a measure up to 13 inches are common, and these weigh about two and three-quarters pounds. In winter the lobstermen are paid anywhere from 40 to 50 cents a pound for their catches.

Trace Old Superstition to Historic Incident

Quite a few common sayings, it has been found, come down from old English ballads, while some are founded on some historical incident. The most famous of the latter perhaps is the old Scottish superstition, "Bad luck to kill spiders."

Those who have read the various stories of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, will recall the one where it is told of the Scottish baron who, awakening one morning disheartened over his attempts to conquer the English and gain the throne of Scotland, saw a spider trying to fasten its web across the rafters of the building.

Twice the spider tried and failed and thereupon Bruce resolved that if its third attempt should be successful, he, too, would try again to defeat the English and gain the Scottish throne.

Bruce, watching the spider, saw it steeling itself for a supreme effort, the spider sprang, and succeeded in fastening its web on the rafter, and, full of courage, Bruce arose to try once again, and like the spider, succeeded. Hence, the superstition, "Bad luck to kill a spider."

Bearers of Good-Will Message from Japan

These four Japanese girls, selected to bring to the United States an expression of their nation's gratitude for the assistance given at the time of the great earthquake, were chosen as the most beautiful maidens of their country. The older woman on the left is their chaperon, Mme. Matsudaira. The girls are her daughters Yuki, Miki, Sachiko and Yoko.

Out of the Air

The "big noise" in the Columbia Broadcasting company is Al Sinton, chief sound engineer. When you hear a rooster crowing, or the wind howling, it's neither of the two, but Al pulling away at one of his weird contraptions.

As a bottle breaking before the microphone does not sound like breaking glass to the listener-in, many miles away, strange devices must be devised to give that effect. Artificial means are called upon to reproduce the sound, also, of a locomotive whistle, or a wave breaking upon the shore. Sinton has invented a noise-box, which at the pressing of a button will produce any one of more than 50 sounds. Thus the man of a million noises, at an instant's notice, can provide the cry of a baby, the hum of a horsefly, or any of the myriad sound effects of the air.

Johnny Martin has told his last bedtime story. As sandman for the Columbia Broadcasting chain, his concluding remark each night was "Good night, dear children—pleasant dreams." One night he got slightly fed up on fairies and what not. So after his usual conclusion, thinking that he was off he air, he vented his disgust in, "Yes, you little brats, good night." Unfortunately for the "late" Mr. Martin, several of the smaller stations leave their mikes open when they go off the chain. Six minutes later the federal radio commission called in person, and Mr. Martin is now looking for another job.

Anyone anxious to learn how to live on 50 cents a day in New York may obtain expert testimony from William Simmons, the American baritone, who broadcasts during the Atwater Kent hour, Sunday nights. While preparing to win the Metropolitan Opera company scholarship, Simmons actually lived on that sum. Incidentally, Simmons recently established a record in being heard simultaneously in North Nigeria, West Africa, Montevideo, and Uruguay.

Ted Husing carries a radio broadcasting station on his back. With two men trailing him to hold up his aerial, he gave the CBS invention a try-out at the Penn relays recently. Thus he was able to follow the races at close range and give all the intimate details of the event. His instrument having a range of 15 miles, the short wave broadcast was caught by station WCAU and then sent over the nation-wide network.

DID YOU KNOW—

That letters addressed to "T's disgusted, New York," are promptly sent to "Amos 'n' Andy" over at NBC? And that Bradford Browne, Chief Nit-Wit of the CBS Nit-Wit hour, received a letter from Buffalo addressed "Yes, We Have No Bananas in New York" the day after it was sent? Some radio fans, these postoffice employees!

That Mary Gerard, the singer who changed her name from Opfinger so the fans could spell it, never sang without her coat on?

Amos: How yo' an' Madame Queen comin' along, Andy?

Andy: Amos, Ah's done put love out of ma heart fo' good. Ah's cured. You know Ah took de madame to de phonographer dis mawnin'. When she see de pitchers she git sore an' tell de phonographer dat dey didn't do her justice. He tell her: He tell her: "Justice, lady? What you want am mercy." Ah bust out laffin' an' de Queen git sore. She got no sense of humor, Andy. Ah's regusted!

Jesse Crawford, the Poet of the Organ, quit a $25 a week job in a Spokane, Wash., movie house for a $10 a week job in a neighboring cinema emporium. And all because the lower paid job called for playing an organ instead of a piano!

Cadillac and La Salle automobiles are now sold with radios installed in the cars. This is due to the recent tie-up between General Motors and the Radio Corporation of America. And what more could one wish than to zoom along the highways listening to the gay strains of far-away orchestras.

Those of you who would like a job as radio announcers and who think that it is just a soft snap, had better take a look at this sample test the Columbia Broadcasting System gives to applicants. Try to pronounce these sentences correctly: Among the other prominent musical composers you will hear are the fiery Russian, Peter Ilitch Tchaikovsky, with selections from 'Oiseau de Feu' and the 'Symphony Pathétique'; the troika will also be heard, Ippolitov Ivanov will afford the delightful composition, 'The March of the Sirdar' from the 'Caucasian Sketches.' Modest Moodsourgy will be selected as one of the composers, with 'Khorvantschina' as his contribution to the program.

DID YOU KNOW—

That the young Long Island flapper who was struck on the wrist by Rudy Vallee's golf ball, taps the wound each day with a hammer? She wants to keep the scar fresh, so as to be able to brag about it.

That Bert Lown, the CBS Blue Ribbon orchestra director, is never broke, because when he gets a new suit he sews a penny into the lining?

That more than 8,400 performers broadcast each month from the New York studios of the National Broadcasting company?

Today-Tomorrow

PROFITS

The Ford Motor company earned $81,797,861 profits in 1929. That was the first profitable year since 1926. In 1927, when the factory was shut down for six months while new machinery for the production of model A was being installed, the company lost $42,786,727. In 1928, while the market for model A was being built up, the company lost $72,221,498.

Those are amazing figures. No less amazing is the Ford report of cash on hand on December 31, 1929, totaling $346,937,496. Most of this is money on deposit subject to check. For many years, Henry Ford has carried a larger cash balance than any man in the world ever had.

Only a closed corporation like this, in which all of the stock is owned by one man, his wife and his son, can do business on such a basis. In other corporations, stockholders demand distribution of assets in dividends. Mr. Ford once told me that the reason he bought out his other stockholders, Senator Couzens and the Dodge brothers, was because they wanted dividends and he wanted to use the profits to enlarge the business and reduce the cost of production. If he had not had such enormous cash resources he could not have weathered the crisis which the abandonment of the old model T caused. As it was, the loss of $115,000,000 in two years was a mere incident.

CROSSINGS

Nearly half of the 30,000 annual deaths in automobile accidents in America occur where highways cross railroad tracks on the same grade. Some states have begun work on programs of eliminating every grade crossing, compelling the railroads to pay most of the cost. The federal government is taking an active part in this movement, in the case of roads which are being built with federal aid. Since 1917, 4,676 grade crossings have been eliminated on federal aid roads.

It is not always necessary to build a bridge over the railroad or a subway under it. Only 995 of these crossings were eliminated in that way; the others were abolished by the simple means of relocating the highway itself.

One of the things that is going to come about in America is a highway system in which this cause of accident and death will be absent.

BOOKS

Guests at the White House, as well as future presidents, will have plenty of good reading matter for their leisure hours, if any. A committee of the American Booksellers association has selected a library of 500 volumes which has been presented to the United States for the White House library.

Undoubtedly many additions will be made to this nucleus, and some of the books will be less read than others, but there are many among them which will never die. In the list are such great American classics as Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," and "Huckleberry Finn," such truly great books as Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and Kingsley's "Westward Ho," as well as many of the great histories, biographies, books of travel and of poetry, in addition to the best of the works of the writers of today.

Leaving out the moderns, whose work still has to stand the test of time, and limiting it to books of more than 25 years ago, this library contains all the elements of a complete, well-rounded education. I can think of no better way to bring up young folks to a high standard of morals, honor, courage, and duty, than to turn them loose when children in the company of the great masters of literature.

TELEVISION

The other day I sat in a little room on Bethune street, in New York, and talked face to face with a man in another little room on Dey street, three miles away. I could see him, and he could see me, as plainly as if we were in the same room. The conversation was as if we were talking across a table—no telephone instruments to speak into or to hold to the ear.

That was the first public demonstration of two-way television. It works. The electrical engineers who explained it to me told me that it will work over 10,000 miles by radio as easily as over those three miles by wire.

It is still very expensive to install and maintain. It will be cheaper. Very soon there will be little rooms in every important center of population, like the ones Mr. Campbell and I sat in, to which anybody can go and for a fee talk to people hundreds of miles away, seeing them as if face to face.

Television is just another age-old dream come true.

There is no question but what Eve had the best husband in the world—at one time.

Annual Spring Pageant Is To Be Given Friday By Women of Physical Education Classes

"What the Moon Sees" Will Picture in Detail Customs and Characteristics of many Peoples and Lands.

"Come with me where the moon beams," or words to that effect, might well be used as the theme song for the pageant which is to be given by the physical education department Friday evening, May 23. "What the Moon Sees" will picture in graphic detail the characteristics and customs of the people of the many lands of the world which the Lady of the Moon gazes upon.

There will be seven scenes, the first of which will deal with the Northlands. The fur-clad people from the land of ice and snow and polar bears, the Eskimos, will come crawling out of their igloos and dance around a totem pole. Something of the religious side of their life will be revealed in this dance. The Russians will then appear skating on the ice, followed by a folk dance ending with the whirl of a solo dancer. Costumes rich and colorful will add much to the otherwise bleakness of the snowy north.

The Lady of the Moon sweeps onward to the British Isles, where the merry sons of Erin will dance a lively lil, and the carefree daughters of Britain will dance dainty May Day dances on the common. Scotland, with its colorful Highland fling and a song that will be one of the features of the program, next finds itself under the glittering moon.

The third division of the pageant finds the moon looking down upon Western Europe. A book case is found to be near, and a little fairy is seen hovering at hand. Slowly she opens the doors of the case and dancers from the countries of France, Switzerland, Holland, and Sweden. The warmth and beauty of the southern Mediterranean next fascinate the Lady of the Moon. The naive dark-eyed Spaniards whirl to the strum of the guitar, and the beautiful Greek maidens reveal their natural art. The Italians, with their love of beauty, trip gracefully before her majesty. Then the moon finds herself in the mystic Orient. The fiery slashing of Turkish swords, and the soft fluttering of Japanese fans hold the Lady spellbound, but she finds she must glide onward.

The South Sea Isles present themselves to view. A Hawaiian orchestra plays dreamily, and a style parade is in progress on the beach, and the dark-skinned beauties catch the eye of the wandering moon. But the gang plank is lowered and the moon is caught in the midst of the hilarious gaiety. There are chorus girls from dazzling Broadway, and snappy bellhops from the Waldorf-Astoria. Orchestras add to the din of merry-making, and the Lady sees the curtain dropping on a grand finale—and the theater public finds its way to a taxi.

Marry in haste and nine times out of ten nobody profits but the marriage license clerk and the parson.

Queer how a fellow's income never quite measures up to the other fellow's conception of its size.

In the case of some people you would rather hear what they don't say than what they say.

Always remember that it's impossible to quarrel with a man or woman who won't answer back.

Speak gently of others and you won't have to complain of what they say of you.

Success often breeds confidence until it is misused.

Golf Course Near Completion; Golf To Be Major Sport

Work on the West Texas Teachers College new golf course is being rushed to completion. Already a few rounds have been played, but it will be a few days before the course will be ready for use. This course is being built by the college for the use of the faculty and student body.

If the new athletic conference is completed, which includes Texas Tech, Simmons University, Texas School of Mines, New Mexico Aggies, Sul Ross, and West Texas, it is planned to make golf one of the major sports. This would add considerable interest to the sport field and no doubt would attract many students who are not out for other athletic sports.

The new course is on the property of Mrs. L. G. Conner, just southeast of town, and in easy walking distance of the college.

Students Are Made Assistants in Several Departments

Student assistants in various departments have been selected for next year, with the exception of those in physics and commerce.

Neville Wrenn has been elected as chemistry assistant for 1930-31. She has held the position during the current year. Miss Wrenn is a member of the Lloyd Green Allen Scholarship Society, the Sesame Literary Society, and of the Y. W. C. A. She will receive her degree in science here with the class of '31.

Bob Clark, who was recently elected to fill Red Keith's place as assistant in the physical education department for men, will continue his work in that department during the coming year. Clark has done all of his college work in W. T., and is a letterman in football and basketball.

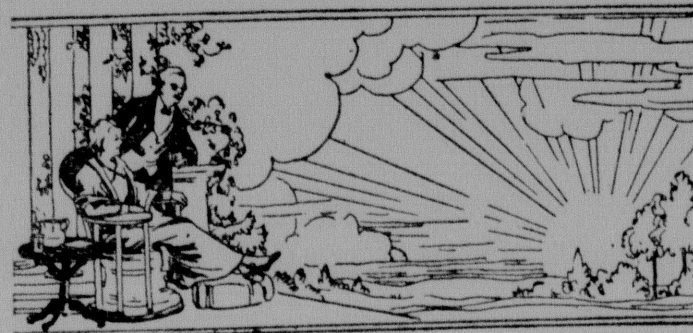

Herman Troutman will be the student assistant in the biology department next year. Troutman did his freshman work in the University of Colorado.

Annual Spring Pageant Is To Be Given Friday By Women of Physical Education Classes

"What the Moon Sees" Will Picture in Detail Customs and Characteristics of many Peoples and Lands.

"Come with me where the moon beams," or words to that effect, might well be used as the theme song for the pageant which is to be given by the physical education department Friday evening, May 23. "What the Moon Sees" will picture in graphic detail the characteristics and customs of the people of the many lands of the world which the Lady of the Moon gazes upon.

There will be seven scenes, the first of which will deal with the Northlands. The fur-clad people from the land of ice and snow and polar bears, the Eskimos, will come crawling out of their igloos and dance around a totem pole. Something of the religious side of their life will be revealed in this dance. The Russians will then appear skating on the ice, followed by a folk dance ending with the whirl of a solo dancer. Costumes rich and colorful will add much to the otherwise bleakness of the snowy north.

The Lady of the Moon sweeps onward to the British Isles, where the merry sons of Erin will dance a lively lilt, and the carefree daughters of Britain will dance dainty May Day dances on the common. Scotland, with its colorful Highland fling and a song that will be one of the features of the program, next finds itself under the glittering moon.

The third division of the pageant finds the moon looking down upon Western Europe. A book case is found to be near, and a little fairy is seen hovering at hand. Slowly she opens the doors of the case and dancers from the countries of France, Switzerland, Holland, and Sweden. The warmth and beauty of the southern Mediterranean next fascinate the Lady of the Moon. The naive dark-eyed Spaniards whirl to the strum of the guitar, and the beautiful Greek maidens reveal their natural art. The Italians, with their love of beauty, trip gracefully before her majesty. Then the moon finds herself in the mystic Orient. The fiery slashing of Turkish swords, and the soft fluttering of Japanese fans hold the Lady spellbound, but she finds she must glide onward.

The South Sea Isles present themselves to view. A Hawaiian orchestra plays dreamily, and a style parade is in progress on the beach, and the dark-skinned beauties catch the eye of the wandering moon. But the gang plank is lowered and the moon is caught in the midst of the hilarious gaiety. There are chorus girls from dazzling Broadway, and snappy bellhops from the Waldorf-Astoria. Orchestras add to the din of merry-making, and the Lady sees the curtain dropping on a grand finale—and the theater public finds its way to a taxi.

Marry in haste and nine times out of ten nobody profits but the marriage license clerk and the parson.

Queer how a fellow's income never quite measures up to the other fellow's conception of its size.

In the case of some people, you would rather hear what they don't say than what they say.

Always remember that it's impossible to quarrel with a man or woman who won't answer back.

An apple a day may keep the doctor away, but an onion a day will keep a multitude away.

Speak gently of others and you won't have to complain of what they say of you.

Success often breeds confidence until it is misused.

W. T. H. S. HONOR GRADUATES ARE ANNOUNCED

SCHOLARSHIPS ARE WON BY MARTHA NELL LANG AND ORLAND CAREY; MARY ALICE WEAVER IS SALUTATORIAN.

Winners of the valedictory and salutatorian of the high school graduating class have been announced as Martha Nell Lang and Mary Alice Weaver, respectively. This entitles Miss Lang to one of the scholarships given each commencement to the girl and boy making the best scholastic records throughout the year. The boys scholarship was won this year by Orland Carey.

All of these young people have done unusually good work this year. Miss Lang won the valedictory and the girls' scholarship by making a straight "A" record—the highest in the class. Miss Weaver, running her a close second, came out one grade point behind, and thereby won second place in the class, and the salutatorian.

Orland Carey, winner of the boys' scholarship, has done perhaps the most outstanding work ever done in W. T. high school. He entered last fall as a sophomore, and has taken enough work in and out of school that by means of examination he is able now to graduate third in the senior class.

These three honor graduates have been thoroughly well-rounded students. Miss Lang has been one of the senior representatives to the Student Council, and editor of Le Petite Mirage, the high school section of the yearbook. She was also treasurer of her class. Miss Weaver has been secretary-treasurer, annual representative, and vice-president of the R. P. Jarrett chapter of the National Honor Society; secretary of the high school Spanish club; and Prairie reporter for the senior class and for the Girls' Athletic Association. Orland Carey has been student assistant in the high school science department.

Acting as choir, the girls of the high school chorus sang the opening anthem, "Savior, Blessed Savior." Mr. F. E. Savage was in charge of the announcements made before the sermon. Mr. Savage introduced Rev. E. B. Fincher, who spoke to the class on "The Power of a Higher Service."

In making closing comments, Mr. Savage drew the attention of the audience to the fact that the schools of Canyon are graduating some one hundred and five boys and girls from high school this year, 53 from W. T.; the others from the Canyon public school.

Permanent Expert Service...

THE McCormick-Deering No. 8 Harvester-Thresher is built to do good work with a minimum of attention, expert service, and upkeep cost. It is a source of satisfaction to an owner, however, to know that in case of minor adjustment or unforeseen emergency, mechanical service and parts are readily available without expensive delays.

International Harvester is always close to owners of McCormick-Deering Harvester-Threshers. This is accomplished through the extensive dealer and branch house organization. Every McCormick-Deering sold receives careful field inspection to be sure it is working properly. Owners are often visited two or three times during their first harvest after purchase of a machine.

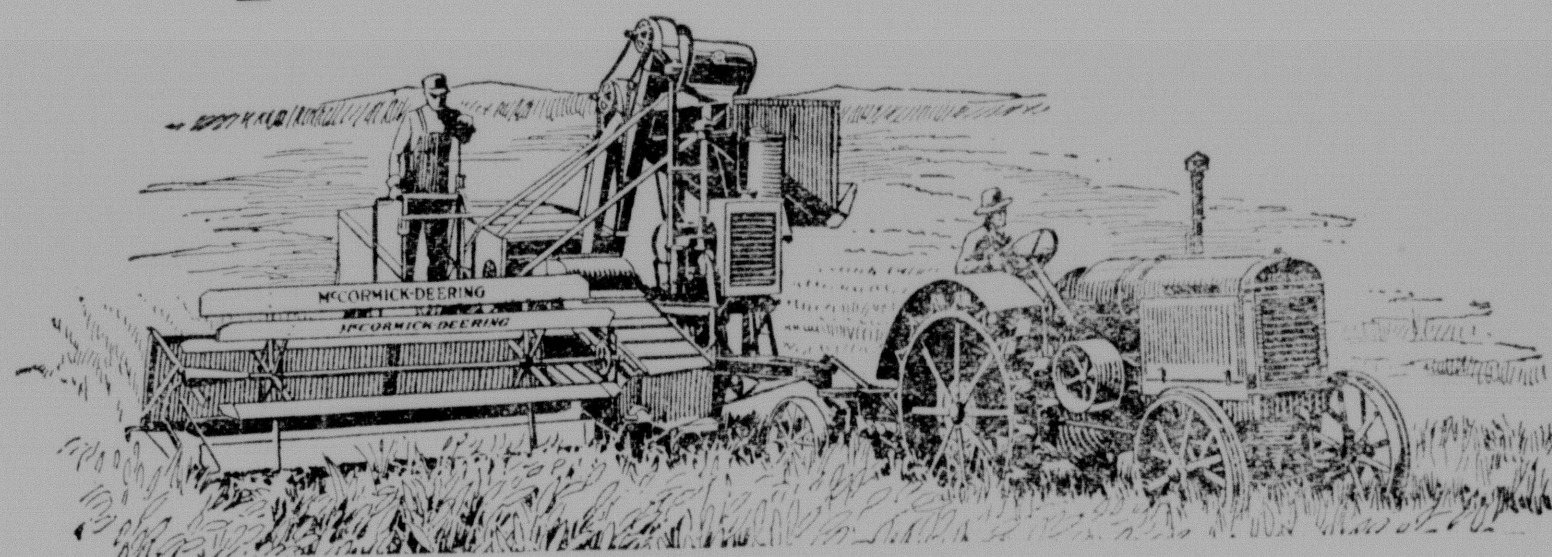

Permanent Dealer Organization

The McCormick-Deering dealer organization is permanent. These dealers have represented the line for years. Many of them have been with us since long before our first harvester-thresher went onto the market 16 years ago. They are experts on harvester-threshers—they are equipped to service more than the engine—they know the entire machine. They have repair parts in stock for the complete machine and can give service on a minute's notice. When you own a McCormick-Deering, one dealer services the entire machine—you don't have to go to one for service on the combine and to another for service on the engine.

McCormick-Deering dealer service is backed up in Kansas and all over the country by Company-owned branches. They dot the state of Kansas, at strategic points, ready to answer any call that comes.

Unexcelled Service on the Spot

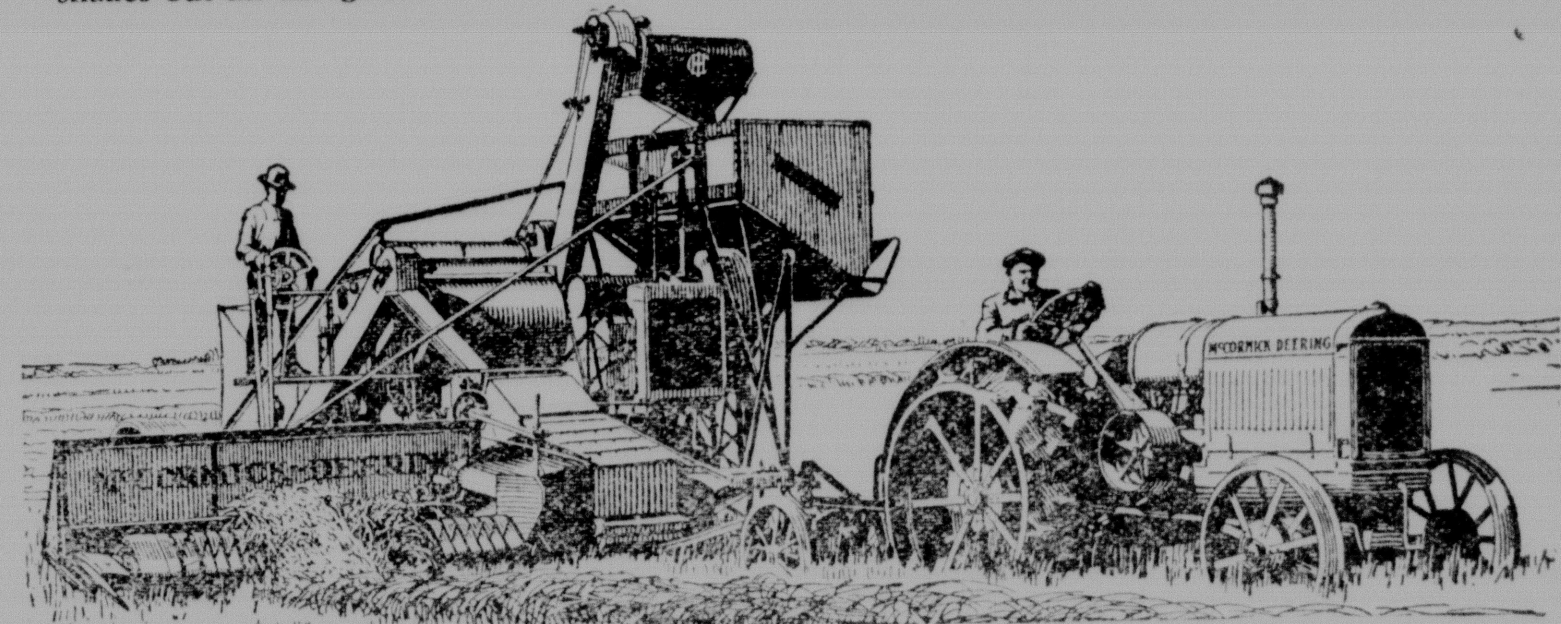

McCormick-Deering service is unexcelled. It is right on the spot, close by, whenever you need it. There are no costly delays. This is the kind of service you want when you are in the midst of the harvest—you can get this from McCormick-Deering dealers and International Harvester branches.

McCormick-Deering No. 8 Harvester-Thresher

YOU'LL GET RELIEF OR YOUR MONEY BACK

THE McCormick-Deering No. 8 Harvester-Thresher is built to do good work with a minimum of attention, expert service, and upkeep cost. It is a source of satisfaction to an owner, however, to know that in case of minor adjustment or unforeseen emergency, mechanical service and parts are readily available without expensive delays.

International Harvester is always close to owners of McCormick-Deering Harvester-Threshers. This is accomplished through the extensive dealer and branch house organization. Every McCormick-Deering sold receives careful field inspection to be sure it is working properly. Owners are often visited two or three times during their first harvest after purchase of a machine.

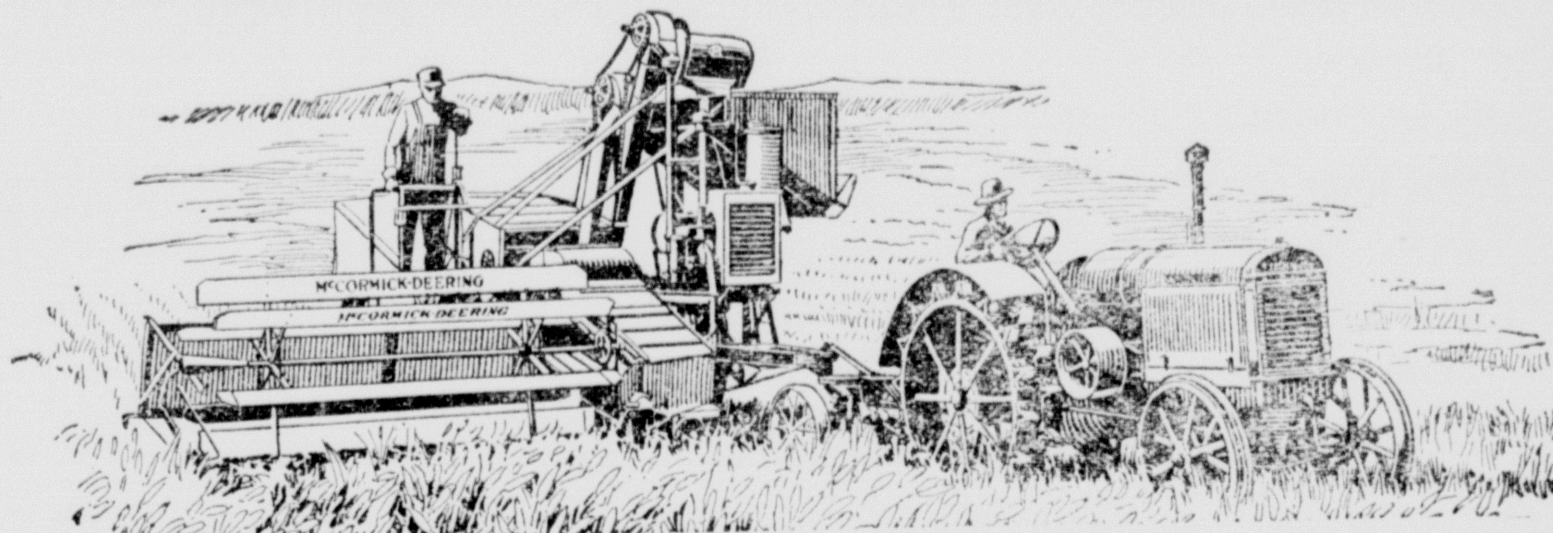

Permanent Dealer Organization

The McCormick-Deering dealer organization is permanent. These dealers have represented the line for years. Many of them have been with us since long before our first harvester-thresher went onto the market 16 years ago. They are experts on harvester-threshers—they are equipped to service more than the engine—they know the entire machine. They have repair parts in stock for the complete machine and can give service on a minute's notice. When you own a McCormick-Deering, one dealer services the entire machine—you don't have to go to one for service on the combine and to another for service on the engine.

McCormick-Deering dealer service is backed up in Kansas and all over the country by Company-owned branches. They dot the state of Kansas, at strategic points, ready to answer any call that comes.

Unexcelled Service on the Spot

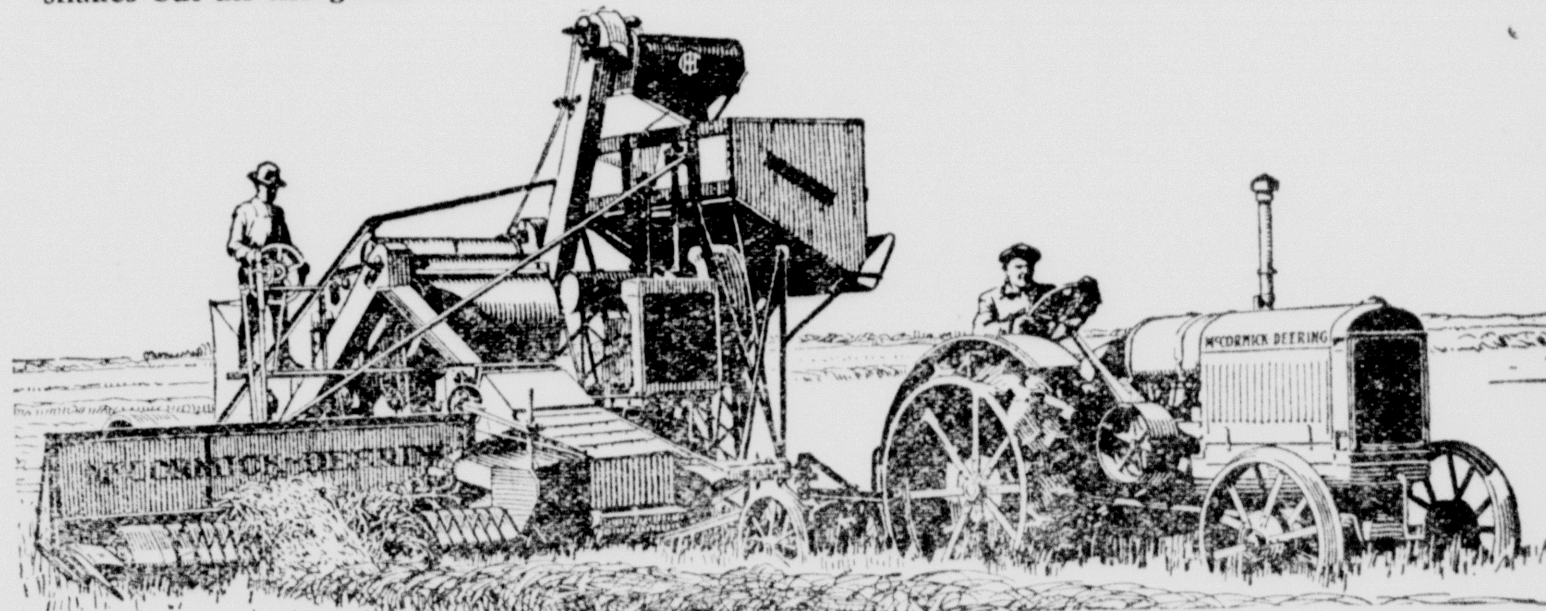

McCormick-Deering service is unexcelled. It is right on the spot, close by, whenever you need it. There are no costly delays. This is the kind of service you want when you are in the midst of the harvest—you can get this from McCormick-Deering dealers and International Harvester branches.

McCormick-Deering No. 8 Harvester-Thresher

12 Important McCormick-Deering Points

- 1 Adjustable to cut low. Gets lodged and tangled grain.
- 2 Continuation of grain-tight platform canvas forms lower elevator canvas. No grain lost at end of platform. Large capacity, wide elevator carries all grain to feeder.
- 3 Chain and slat feeder carries grain, heads first, into the cylinder. Direct front feed.
- 4 Spiked beater in feeder assures positive feeding and controls delivery of grain to cylinder.
- 5 Ninety per cent separation at cylinder. Straw and grain thus separated never mix again.
- 6 Four-section straw rack. Extends entire length of thresher from cylinder to straw spreader. Combs straw apart, drops it three times, thoroughly shakes out all the grain.
- 7 Extra long chaffer and cleaning sieve thoroughly cleans grain.
- 8 Revolving weed screen takes weed seeds out of threshed grain and bags them. Saves dockage and reduces spread of weeds.
- 9 Platform folds for transportation—does not have to be detached. No transport truck to buy.
- 10 A pioneer of small combines—backed by 99 years of practical harvesting-machine experience and by field tests under difficult conditions in the harvest fields of the world.
- 11 Expert service on the entire machine by permanent dealers and Company-owned branches.
- 12 Handles a variety of crops under a variety of conditions and seasons.

The Way of Life

DO YOU KNOW

HOW TO BREATHE?

I once had the misfortune to know a pessimist. There was some excuse for his pessimism. He was a narrow-chested chap threatened with tuberculosis.

He had given himself up for lost. One night somebody induced him to go to a singing school.

A year later his chest was filled out; there was a sparkle in his eye; his laugh could be heard a city block away.

He had learned how to breathe!

Even when you practice deep breathing exercises you probably do not fill your entire lung capacity. You expand your chest; but the really important part of your breathing is done with your diaphragm—a big flat muscle that forms the floor of your chest.

And the abdominal muscles are the boys you need to train if you are to get the most out of your diaphragm.

Fill your lungs until you feel your stomach muscles hard against your belt.

That means that your diaphragm has straightened down and is massaging the top of your stomach and intestines—helping along with the process of elimination.

When you breathe out, do it forcibly, with the stomach muscles; like a horse snorting—but without the snort.

Your stomach and intestines will be forced up against the diaphragm again and given another massage.

Breathing in is important, but breathing out is much more important.

Read some time a book by a man like Thoreau, or John Burroughs, or Stewart Edward White—one of the great open-air writers.

Then, while the impression of its rich, bounding optimism is still upon you, pick up a book written by one of our modern long-haired writers, who believe that realism necessarily means murder and drunkenness and prostitution.

What a difference! And what makes the difference?

The realist will tell you that it is because he thinks deeply, while the optimistic writer thinks superficially.

As a matter of fact, the difference is not in the brains of the two men, but in their livers.

It is not the depth of their thinking so much as the depths of their lungs.

The corpuscles of the one are red and fed with oxygen; the corpuscles of the other are pale and fed with cigarette smoke and germs.

"For what, after all, is Life?" asks an old Sanskrit quotation. And answers:

"Life is the interval between one breath and another—he who only half breathes, only half lives."

LETTING OFF STEAM

Every human being has a right to say what he thinks, and so long as in saying it he does not directly incite others to crime or offend public decency, nobody has a right to stop him from speaking his mind.

That is the sum and substance of our constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech. There is hardly a person living who does not at times yearn for the opportunity to "let off steam" by expressing his opinion of the way the world is run, and of some of the people who have a hand in running it.

A good many people are fanatics on the subject of speaking their mind. They love to attract attention to themselves, and to abuse those in authority. When officials try to suppress them, these vociferous ones are happy. It proves that the world is all wrong. They immediately become, in their own minds and in the minds of others like them, martyrs to the cause of free speech.

There is only one intelligent way to handle such people. That is to let them talk, preserve order in the crowd that is listening to them, and pay no attention to what they say. And that is the way in which the Communist demonstrations early in March were handled in most American cities, and elsewhere in the world.

That didn't suit the Communists. There is no glory in being allowed to talk. What they want is to be prevented from talking. That gives them a high degree of satisfaction and gives color to their claim that free speech is not allowed in this country. So when they found, in New York, in Chicago, and elsewhere, that they were not going to be interfered with, they began to throw things at the police in the effort to provoke retaliation to which they could point as evidence of oppression.

Talking hurts nobody unless the effort is made to suppress it. Like dynamite, these agitators are dangerous only when confined. Give them a chance to let off steam by talking their heads off, if they want to, and the rest of the world will go about its business without bothering with them. Try to squelch them and a good many honest but stupid people will begin to wonder whether after all there isn't something in their claim that they are being persecuted. And that is the impression they are trying to convey.

KNOW TEXAS

The two largest oil refineries in the world are in Texas—each with daily capacity for handling 125,000 barrels of crude.

Texas is not among the leading states in metal production, but in 1929 its mines produced $28,000 in gold, 1,050,000 ounces of silver, a million pounds of lead, and 400,000 pounds of copper.

There are 254 counties in Texas, ranging in size from 149 square miles (Rockwall) to 5,935 (Brewster). Next is Georgia, with 160 counties.

Although creation of new counties has reduced the area of many of the large counties, Texas still has eight which exceed 3,000 square miles.

The average Texas county approximates 900 square miles. Harris, with 1,654 square miles, is the largest in the early developed section of the state.

Rockwall, with only 149 square miles, is the smallest county in Texas. Morris, Delta, Rains, Franklin, Titus, Marion, and Gregg, each covers less than 400 square miles.

During 1929, Texas set a new high record for charters issued, 2,630 corporations being organized. Permits to 329 outside corporations were granted, making a total of 2,959 new enterprises entering business in the state during the year.
